HHH Defends Poverty Wars

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said today he and President Johnson remain committed without reservation "to winning the war against poverty (and) against ignorance."

"There will be disappointments and even failures as we move ahead toward our goal. But we stand committed," he said in remarks prepared for a ground-breaking ceremony for Pace College's $12-million campus center in lower Manhattan.

Noting recent critical studies of Project Head Start — the educational program for disadvantaged preschool children — he said the studies "substantiated what we have sensed all along:

"That what is gained (in the program) can be lost in a short period of time if the necessary follow-through is not assured, if the Head Start youngsters move into an indifferent school system that deadens the barely kindled spark in his mind."

"We have learned that Head Start has been no more than a false start for far too many young children for whom we held high hope. Does that mean we should abandon Project Head Start?"

The vice president suggested the solution lies instead in application of Head Start's "high standards and innovations into the first few grades of elementary school — a teacher for every 15 students, for example."

He said Harold Howe, federal commissioner of education, "intends to see that proposals for innovations and new programs at the elementary level are given rapid and favorable consideration in the year ahead."

Governor Rhodes' Plans Switched!

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. James A. Rhodes planned a quiet Saturday night dinner to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary, but it didn't work out that way.

More than 100 friends and relatives surprised them with a party at the Scioto Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard More, son-in-law and daughter of the governor, planned the party and said they invited mostly friends from the governor's and Mrs. Rhodes' courtship days.

5 Die in Explosion

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — An explosive collision of a fuel truck and two automobiles, followed by a roaring fire that engulfed six vehicles, left at least five dead today on one of Indianapolis' busiest streets.

Keeping Score On the Rainfall

LBJ Attacks Ag, Space Budgets

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson wrestles with the big space and agriculture budgets today as he swings into a full schedule of official conferences at his Texas ranch.

Summoned to the President's home near Johnson City, 65 miles west of here, were Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Director James E. Webb of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

For the current year, Johnson proposed budgets of nearly $7 billion for agriculture and $5.1 billion for NASA.

The budget the President now is working on, for presentation to Congress next month, covers the 12 months starting July 1.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be at the ranch Tuesday, presumably to help nail down some of the final details of the new defense budget, expected to total nearly $70 billion.

The total budget will likely run around $135 billion.

The budget, however, is just one of two major documents Johnson is preparing for Congress. The other is his State of the Union message — a broad outline of his goals and plans for the country's future.

Johnson also faces in the next few weeks a decision on whether to increase taxes. Some economists believe a tax hike is needed now to bring federal income and spending into closer balance and to dampen inflationary pressures.

Others, however, feel an increase in taxes now, when some economic indicators are turning mushy, would only promote a recession.

Other problems facing the President include the future of his "Great Society" programs, including social welfare and other domestic efforts; the question of the military draft and future defense projects.

Russia Gives Top Honors To Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev received praise and honors today given no Soviet leader since the fall of Nikita Khrushchev 26 months ago.

The Kremlin's emphasis on collective leadership since the fall of Khrushchev, was dropped for Brezhnev's 60th birthday today. The general secretary of the Soviet Communist party was accorded honors far exceeding those usual even for a top official.

Normally only Pravda, the Soviet Communist party paper, is issued Monday. But all national newspapers published special editions with a large portrait of Brezhnev in the center of the front page.

All papers also carried a glowing tribute to Brezhnev signed by the party's ruling Central Committee, the government Council of Ministers and the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

They also published the text of the decree awarding Brezhnev the country's highest honor, the title Hero of the Soviet Union, which carries with it the Order of Lenin and a gold star medal.

Brezhnev's portrait was shown on television for five minutes Sunday night as the announcement of the award and a congratulatory message were read. This was unprecedented in the post-Khrushchev era.

The present Soviet command has stressed collective rule in contrast to the personality cults of Khrushchev and Stalin. In recent weeks, however, Brezhnev has been singled out as the top man with praise in speeches by other leaders.

The party chief has always been the top man in the Soviet Union since the party gives orders to the government.

13 Lost at Sea In Freighter Wreck

UMEA, Sweden (AP) — The 13 crew members of the Greek freighter Sinergasia died after the 910-ton vessel ran aground off this north Swedish port and broke up in an icy storm, the Coast Guard said today.

Rescuers finally able to reach the ship said there was no hope of survivors.

2 Are Slain In Teen-Ager Escape Bid

Youth Surrenders After Companion, Trooper Are Shot

GREENSBURG, Ind. (AP) — A teen-ager hunted in the slaying of a state trooper held an elderly farm couple captive more than five hours before surrendering Sunday without resistance.

James Lee Collins, 18, Erlanger, Ky., was jailed on a preliminary charge of first-degree murder.

A companion, James W. Sprinkle, 29, Newport, Ky., did in the gun battle which killed trooper William R. Rayner, 30, Greensburg.

Lawrence B. Earnest, 78, and his wife, Christine, 76, said they were confronted by the youth when they returned home from church.

When the couple's son, Henry, 52, and his wife, Ruby, 52, stopped by 5 1/2 hours later the elder Mrs. Earnest signaled that something was wrong. The daughter-in-law darted from the house, ran down the road and flagged one of the dozens of police cars combing the area.

Collins and Sprinkle were absent without leave from the Louisville, Ky., Community Guidance Center, a supervisory institution for parolees. Authorities said they were in a stolen car with Sprinkle driving when Rayner stopped them early Sunday.

Bogota Crash Fatal to 18

Crestline Woman Among Survivors

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — As "people started to scream and call for their children," a Colombian airliner crashed short of the runway while landing at Bogota in heavy fog Sunday, killing 18 persons and injuring 10.

Aerocorridor Air Lines said the crash took the lives of nine Americans from Florida, five Colombians living in the United States and four other Colombians.

The airline said in Miami, Fla., where the flight began, that the Super-Constellation carried 54 passengers and 6 crew.

One survivor, Kay Tuttle, 23, of Crestline, Ohio, said passengers were told as they neared Eldorado Airport that the plane would land despite thickening fog.

She said the plane struck what she believed was dirt and swayed wildly from side to side.

"People started to scream and call for their children and the plane went into total darkness," Miss Tuttle said. The aircraft "seemed to break in two and many people were able to escape. I jumped out through an emergency exit."

She broke a leg.

"If the plane had caught fire we all would have been killed," she said.

Bomb Set Off In St. Louis Air Terminal

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A homemade bomb that exploded in the terminal building of Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport Saturday night probably was designed to destroy an airplane, a St. Louis County detective said Sunday.

"We're pretty certain someone was going to put it on a plane and then chicken out," said detective Hugh Hodges.

James Williams, a custodian, found the bomb — four sticks of dynamite wired to two batteries and an alarm clock — near the Ozark Airlines counter under a row of seats.

More than 1,000 persons were evacuated within 10 minutes and passengers on incoming flights were told to remain aboard their planes.

No one was injured when the device exploded, shattering seven large window panes, destroying a display case and several chairs.

Maj. F. J. Vasek said his detectives and the FBI were told there had been two previous bomb threats at the airport last week.

U.S. Asks U Thant To Plan Cease-Fire

Grant Okayed For County Action Effort

The Federal Office of Economic Opportunity has announced the awarding of a $14,980 grant for program administration in Pickaway County.

Funds will be administered by the Pickaway County Community Action Organization Inc., under Mrs. Gloria Pike, director.

The 12-month program will serve 2,129 low-income families.

According to Theodore A. Jones, director of OEO Great Lakes Region, monies will be used to provide staff and resources necessary to continue the CAO office in Pickaway County, to publish survey data gathered during the past year, to create and implement programs alleviating county-wide poverty and to promote neighborhood organization in three areas of concentrated poverty.

THE continuing program will also enable the CAO to maintain its position in coordinating economic opportunity programs with other community agencies and in preventing duplication of community efforts to lessen poverty.

The local CAO is governed by 39 directors elected by the general membership with E. G. G. currently serving as president. One-third of the board members are from the low-income families.

Ohio Students Again March To Cleveland

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — A group of college students protesting U.S. military action in Vietnam were bused back to Canton today from the Tallmadge Methodist Church near Akron to resume a 50-mile peace march to Cleveland.

Larry Cox, 21, a Mount Union College student who heads the 20-member group, said more students are expected to join the march as the group gets closer to Cleveland.

"We made about 10 miles Sunday, but we expect to make more distance today," Cox said. He said the marchers intend to walk all day then be driven to the Westlawn Methodist Church in Akron to stay overnight.

Other churches where the students will stay during their march include Sentinay Methodist Church in Akron and Cory Methodist Church in Cleveland.

The group left Massillon Sunday afternoon and marched toward Canton on U.S. 30, handing out leaflets to a few curious residents.

The walk, sponsored by the Ohio Methodist Students Movement is scheduled to end in Cleveland on Christmas Eve with a peace ceremony in that city's Public Square.

"If we were students in North Vietnam," said Cox, "We would be attempting to get the government there to also discontinue fighting and sit down at the conference table. We believe true Christianity could, if given the chance, solve most of the differences of opinion."

Cox, who lives in Avon Lake, said young persons of all faiths are participating, not just Methodists. He said more students would join the march this week.

Pontiac To Check 16,000 New Cars

DETROIT (AP) — More than 16,000 new cars in three Pontiac lines are being checked for possible misaligned steering shafts, the General Motors Pontiac Division announced today.

Misalignment could cause abnormal stress on the steering shaft, causing it to break if the stress continued over a long period of time, the announcement said.

U.S. Warplanes Hit Hanoi Area

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. warplanes returned to the Hanoi area with clearing weather over the Red River Valley today and attacked the Ha Gia fuel storage area 14.5 miles north of the North Vietnamese capital, a U.S. spokesman reported.

In the South, the United States continued beefing up its troop strength with the arrival of a guerrilla-trained brigade of the 9th Infantry Division — the old outfit of Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in South Vietnam. He was on hand to greet them.

Ground fighting tapered off to small scale skirmishes.

In the new raids in the Hanoi area, a U.S. spokesman in Saigon said, initial pilot reports indicated all the ordnance from the U.S. planes hit in the target area.

The raids last week set off a series of Communist charges that homes were bombed in Hanoi, killing women and children.

The United States denied that any bombs fell on the Communist capital. U.S. officials speculated that the Communist ground fire — missiles and antiaircraft shells — may have fallen on the city. Also there was a possibility U.S. bombs and rockets fell accidentally on nonmilitary targets, as frequently happens in aerial warfare.

The raids last week were five and six miles from the center of Hanoi, spokesmen in Saigon said. The targets were railroad and truck depots, though Communist broadcasts insist the Communist Chinese Embassy and the Romanian Embassy in Hanoi were damaged.

U.S. headquarters in Saigon reported American plane losses over North Vietnam had reached 450. This included four planes not previously announced. A U.S. spokesman said these had gone down out of sight of the enemy, indicating they had crashed in the Gulf of Tonkin or in Laos.

The spokesman also announced that 144 American planes have been lost in action over South Vietnam.

Other action reported:

— B52 bombers struck twice today at North Vietnamese staging areas and supply points just south of the demilitarized zone in Quang Tri Province. The raids were the third and fourth in the area within two days and apparently were aimed at wrecking a new buildup by infiltrating North Vietnamese troops.

Kiesinger Gives Views On CBS-TV

WANTS TO EASE FRANCO-AMERICAN RELATIONSHIPS

NEW YORK (AP) — West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger says his government may be able to help overcome some of the difficulties between France and the United States.

The chancellor, who announced last week that his government would make a major effort to coordinate policy with France, spoke Sunday on the Columbia Broadcasting System's "Face the Nation" television program.

Asked how Germany could be friends with both France and the United States, in view of current Franco-American difficulties, Kiesinger said: "I have always refused to accept the alternative of either the United States or France."

France, he noted in the interview which was recorded in Bonn, "is the oldest ally of America here in Europe. And I am firmly convinced that this longstanding tradition of friendship will one day be revived."

"And in this sense," he continued, "I feel we could try — I do not want to overrate our own capabilities and possibilities — but we can try to help overcome some of these difficulties existing today between France and the United States."

He did not spell out how his government might act as mediator.

The chancellor said Germany did not intend to follow France's example and pull its forces out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Kiesinger said Bonn's effort "to bring about with France a core of European unity in no way has any anti-American feelings because we know only too well that European freedom depends on the alliance with the United States."

Pledge Full U.S. Cooperation in Necessary Effort

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States today asked U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to take whatever steps were necessary to arrange a cease-fire in Vietnam.

The request was handed to the secretary-general by U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg during a 20-minute private meeting.

Goldberg pledged full U.S. cooperation in any cease-fire efforts.

The U.S. request was contained in a letter which stressed the desire of President Johnson for an end of the Vietnam conflict, and the U.S. hope that the secretary-general might be able to take a useful initiative.

Goldberg said a cease-fire could be the first order of business at a peace conference "or could be the subject of preliminary discussions."

"I herewith reaffirm our commitment to that proposal," Goldberg declared noting that both Pope Paul VI and Thant had appealed for a cessation of the hostilities.

"Our objective remains the end of all the fighting, of all the hostilities and of all violence in Vietnam — and an honorable and lasting settlement here, for which, as we have repeatedly said, the Geneva agreements of 1954 and 1962 would be a satisfactory basis."

He concluded as follows: "We turn to you, therefore, with the hope and the request that you will take whatever steps you consider necessary to bring about the necessary discussion which could lead to such a cease-fire."

"I can assure you that the government of the United States will cooperate fully with you in getting such discussions started promptly and in bringing them to a successful conclusion."

A U.N. spokesman said Thant "will have this document under close study." In response to a question as to whether the secretary-general was not already seeking a cease-fire, the spokesman replied: "Yes. He has been trying to get a cease-fire and to bring about a solution on the basis of his three-point proposal."

This included an immediate cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam, a gradual de-escalation of military actions by both sides and participation of all parties, including the Viet Cong, in peace negotiations.

Roundtown

REBECCA Alkire, holder of the Miss American Teen-ager Crown and title, will leave for California Tuesday where she will be a celebrity guest at several functions. . . . A highlight of the trip will be a guest appearance in the "Man From U.N.C.L.E." TV series. She will also be a guest in the Tournament of Roses Parade on New Year's Day in addition to making other West Coast television appearances. Accompanying her will be her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Alkire, Route 1.

Former Arabia King Moves to Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Ex-King Saud of Saudi Arabia has ended his exile in Greece and is now setting up quarters in Cairo, a city once declared off-limits to him by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Saud, 65, and his entourage of 45 wives, children and staff moved into a hotel overlooking the Nile Sunday for "an indefinite stay."

AEC Detects Soviet Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seismic signals originating from the central Soviet Union equivalent to a nuclear blast in the low-intermediate range have been recorded by the Atomic Energy Soviet underground nuclear test.

The seismology institution at Upsala, Sweden, however, reported recording a disturbance larger than an Oct. 27 Soviet test blast — which the AEC said at that time was the largest underground test yet.

An AEC spokesman, questioned about the conflicting reports, said the AEC was certain Sunday's disturbance was in the low to intermediate force range. The spokesman said that means an equivalent of 20,000 tons of TNT.

The AEC had put the Oct. 27 blast at near one million tons of TNT. The United States says that none of its underground tests in Nevada have been of more than half the force of the big Soviet shot.

Solon Names Major Threat To Democracy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark says the major threats to American democracy are what he called the "military-industrial complex" and the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Central Intelligence Agency.

The Pennsylvania Democrat said the military-industrial complex "is evidenced in very high quarters by our strong support of military regimes in various parts of the world and by the enormous impact which the military and their industrial partners exercise over public opinion and on the members of Congress and the Senate."

Interviewed Sunday on the Mutual Broadcasting System's radio program "Reporters' Roundup," Clark described the CIA as an agency "which we've got to have, which practically every other nation has, which I think in our country has achieved a position of power pretty close to the danger line."

The third danger, Clark said, "is evidenced by recent disclosures in the newspapers of the FBI and the threat they pose to the privacy of the individual citizen and the further threat they pose by way of blackmail, direct or indirect, on anybody who has the effrontery to say anything unkind about Mr. J. Edgar Hoover" — the FBI director.

He said Harold Howe, federal commissioner of education, "intends to see that proposals for innovations and new programs at the elementary level are given rapid and favorable consideration in the year ahead."

Governor Rhodes' Plans Switched!

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. and Mrs. James A. Rhodes planned a quiet Saturday night dinner to celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary, but it didn't work out that way.

More than 100 friends and relatives surprised them with a party at the Scioto Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard More, son-in-law and daughter of the governor, placed the party and said they invited mostly friends from the governor's and Mrs. Rhodes' courtship days.

LBJ Attacks Ag. Space Budgets

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson wrestles with the big space and agriculture budgets today as he swings into a full schedule of official conferences at his Texas ranch.

Summoned to the President's home near Johnson City, 65 miles west of here, were Budget Director Charles L. Schultze, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Director James E. Webb of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

For the current year, Johnson proposed budgets of nearly $7 billion for agriculture and $5.1 billion for NASA.

The budget the President now

is working on, for presentation to Congress next month, covers the 12 months starting July 1.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara will be at the ranch Tuesday, presumably to help nail down some of the final details of the new defense budget, expected to total nearly $70 billion.

The total budget will likely run around $135 billion.

The budget, however, is just one of two major documents Johnson is preparing for Congress. The other is his State of the Union message — a broad outline of his goals and plans for the country's future.

Johnson also faces in the next few weeks a decision on whether to increase taxes. Some economists believe a tax hike is needed now to bring federal income and spending into closer balance and to dampen inflationary pressures.

Others, however, feel an increase in taxes now, when some economic indicators are turning mushy, would only promote a recession.

Other problems facing the President include the future of his "Great Society" programs, including social welfare and other domestic efforts; the question of the military draft and future defense projects.

Russia Gives Top Honors To Brezhnev

MOSCOW (AP) — Leonid I. Brezhnev received praise and honors today given no Soviet leader since the fall of Nikita Khrushchev 26 months ago.

The Kremlin's emphasis on collective leadership since the fall of Khrushchev, was dropped for Brezhnev's 60th birthday today. The general secretary of the Soviet Communist party was accorded honors far exceeding those usual even for a top official.

Normally only Pravda, the Soviet Communist party paper, is issued Monday. But all national newspapers published special editions with a large portrait of Brezhnev in the center of the front page.

All papers also carried a glowing tribute to Brezhnev signed by the party's ruling Central Committee, the government Council of Ministers and the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet.

They also published the text of the decree awarding Brezhnev the country's highest honor, the title Hero of the Soviet Union, which carries with it the Order of Lenin and a gold star medal.

Brezhnev's portrait was shown on television for five minutes Sunday night as the announcement of the award and a congratulatory message were read. This was unprecedented in the post-Khrushchev era.

The present Soviet command has stressed collective rule in contrast to the personality cults of Khrushchev and Stalin. In recent weeks, however, Brezhnev has been singled out as the top man with praise in speeches by other leaders.

The party chief has always been the top man in the Soviet Union since the party gives orders to the government.

Bogota Crash Fatal to 18

Crestline Woman Among Survivors

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — As "people started to scream and call for their children," a Colombian airliner crashed short of the runway while landing at Bogota in heavy fog Sunday, killing 18 persons and injuring 10.

Aerocorridor Air Lines said the crash took the lives of nine Americans from Florida, five Colombians living in the United States and four other Colombians.

The airline said in Miami, Fla., where the flight began, that the Super-Constellation carried 54 passengers and 6 crew.

One survivor, Kay Tuttle, 23, of Crestline, Ohio, said passengers were told as they neared Eldorado Airport that the plane would land despite thickening fog.

She said the plane struck what she believed was dirt and swayed wildly from side to side.

"People started to scream and call for their children and the plane went into total darkness," Miss Tuttle said. The aircraft "seemed to break in two and many people were able to escape. I jumped out through an emergency exit."

She broke a leg.

"If the plane had caught fire we, all would have been killed," she said.

Bomb Set Off In St. Louis Air Terminal

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — A homemade bomb that exploded in the terminal building of Lambert-St. Louis Municipal Airport Saturday night probably was designed to destroy an airplane, a St. Louis County detective said Sunday.

"We're pretty certain someone was going to put it on a plane and then chicken out," said detective Hugh Hodges.

James Williams, a custodian, found the bomb — four sticks of dynamite wired to two batteries and an alarm clock — near the Ozark Airlines counter under a row of seats.

More than 1,900 persons were evacuated within 10 minutes and passengers on incoming flights were told to remain aboard their planes.

No one was injured when the device exploded, shattering seven large window panes, destroying a display case and several chairs.

Maj. F. J. Vasek said his detectives and the FBI were told there had been two previous bomb threats at the airport last week.

2 Americans Go on Trial In Leningrad

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Two young Americans pleaded guilty at the start of their trial in a Leningrad court today to violating Soviet currency regulations.

Buel Ray Wortham of North Little Rock, Ark., also pleaded guilty to stealing an antique statue of a bear from a Leningrad hotel.

The currency charge against Wortham and Craddock M. Gilmour Jr. of Salt Lake City, Utah, carries a possible prison sentence of three to eight years. The maximum sentence on the theft charge is three years.

Wortham, 25, and Gilmour, 24, were arrested Oct. 1 as they were driving to Finland. Gilmour was released Dec. 1 on bail of more than $11,000 but bail was denied Wortham.

The trial is expected to last three days.

The indictment charged that Wortham illegally exchanged $35 and 35 Finnish marks for 75 rubles while Gilmour had Wortham change $30 for him for 45 the two paid about $75 for rubles worth $132 at the official rate.

The indictment also accused Wortham of taking a statue of a bear from his hotel and trying to remove it from the country in his suitcase.

After the indictment had been translated into English, the woman judge presiding, Nina I. Isakova, asked the defendants how they pleaded.

Wortham, his brow furrowed and a worn look on his face, said: "I plead guilty."

Gilmour, looked fresher as he replied: "I plead guilty but only in the amount of $20."

New Quarrel Delays U.N. Adjournment

Crisis Looms Over Canadian Resolution

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — A new quarrel over U. N. peacekeeping operations threatened today to delay adjournment of the General Assembly's 2nd session.

The Soviet Union and France warned Saturday night that a new crisis might result if the assembly adopted a Canadian resolution setting guidelines for the special committee on peacekeeping operations. The two countries said the resolution was illegal.

A conciliation commission of 11 nonaligned countries sought to head off a showdown. One member said the commission wanted Canada to withdraw the resolution. Another said it was trying to work out amendments acceptable to all.

The assembly postponed a vote on the resolution until today. It appeared that this would run the session into Tuesday, the scheduled closing day, and frustrate the hope of Assembly President Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan that he could end it a day ahead of time.

The basic issue was the same as that which paralyzed the General Assembly two years ago: whether the assembly, with its majority rule, shares the constitutional authority of the Security Council, with its big-power veto, to arrange for peacekeeping operations. The United States and Britain say it does. The Soviet Union and France say it does not.

In 1964, the Soviet Union and France, were two years behind in paying peacekeeping assessments voted by the assembly and the United States threatened to invoke a clause of the U. N. Charter providing that such delinquents should lose their assembly vote. The Americans finally backed down. The Soviets and French still refuse to pay.

The Canadian resolution would have the General Assembly invite member countries to inform the United Nations what forces they can provide if asked "to participate in a duly authorized United Nations peacekeeping operation."

French Ambassador Roger Seydoux told the assembly that "goes beyond the competence of the General Assembly." He said that the authors of the resolution "run the risk of reviving divergencies which were about to lose their seriousness."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko objected also that the resolution "empowers the General Assembly to finance the operation of United Nations armed forces, which is within the sole competence of the Security Council."

He said its adoption would "shut the door to negotiations" and might "lead to the emergence of situations of crisis" again.

Both delegates however supported a Jamaican resolution to have the assembly recommend that the Security Council negotiate arrangements with U. N. members for peacekeeping forces to be made available at the council's call.

The special political committee recommended both resolutions Wednesday night. Each got better than the two-thirds majority needed for approval in the assembly. Diplomatic sources said the Soviet and French diplomats warned privately that if the assembly adopted the Canadian proposal, they would reconsider whether to stay on the peacekeeping committee.

Man Fined, Jailed Here For OVI

Alonzo Earl Pence, 50, of Columbus, was fined $150 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court today when he entered a plea of guilty to driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

In addition, he was sentenced to three days in the Pickaway County Jail by Judge Sterling M. Lamb and had his driving rights suspended for six months. Ernest Horsley, 30, of Chillicothe, cited into court for the second time this year for speeding, was fined $50 and costs. He was charged by the State Highway Patrol for traveling 75 miles in a 50 mile zone.

Other court cases were: Donald E. Hickman, 20, Lucasville; Charles Conley, 40, Mansfield; Michael Carrier, 23, Waverly; Alta Taylor, 29, Belle Center; $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Marcia Lovely, 18, Williamsport; James Shawl, 22, Bay City, Mich.; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Jeanne Nicholson, 20, Coaiton, $25 and costs for speeding 85 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone. Roger Leist, 26, of 186 Nicholas Drive; $15 and costs for creating unnecessary noise with a motor vehicle.

Dr. Sam, Wife To Visit Germany

CLEVELAND (AP)—Samuel H. Sheppard and his wife will leave for a visit in Germany after the first of the year, Sheppard said Saturday.

Mrs. Sheppard, the former osteopath's second wife, said they will go to Germany so Sheppard could "meet my parents." She said the trip will last several months so they "get to know one another."

World Publishing Co. here has cancelled a public appearance tour by Sheppard promoting his book, "Endure and Conquer." A spokesman for the firm said the action was taken for two reasons but declined to elaborate.

'Unmilitant' Lieutenant Is Honored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Lt. Walter J. Marm Jr., whose family had wondered what kind of soldier he would make, receives the nation's highest award for heroism today.

Sixteen relatives and members of Marm's family were to be present today when Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor presents him the Medal of Honor for courage during the battle of Ia Drang in November 1965.

Marm, 25, of Washington, Pa., is credited with killing 18 North Vietnamese soldiers firing on his platoon at the foot of Chu Pong Mountain. He was wounded in the battle.

"To tell you the truth, I didn't know what kind of soldier I would be," Marm's father, Walter J. Marm Sr., said when President Johnson signed the citation last Nov. 16.

"He'd never been in a fight in his life," said the retired Pennsylvania state policeman. "I never knew him to be mad at anybody."

The day of the battle, Marm's platoon had joined a battalion assault into an elephant grass-cluttered field near the Ia Drang River. As they advanced to their position, they came onto a clearing and suddenly were blasted by mortar shells.

One machine gun was firing from the side of a big anthill 50 yards in front of the platoon.

"The first thing I did," Marm recalled last month, "was fire a rocket launcher at the bunker. Then I took two grenades and an M16 rifle and went straight up."

"The enemy kept firing back and I told my men to hold their fire and kept advancing until I got close to the bunker."

"I pulled the pin of a grenade and just lobbed it over. After it went off I went around to the left, saw some movements and fired. I fired six times, but didn't know then how many there were. They told me there were 18, but I didn't know."

Marm, wounded by a bullet that shattered his jaw, spent the next three months at a Valley Forge, Pa., hospital. He now is an instructor at the Ranger department of the Ft. Benning, Ga., Infantry School.

Alert Deputy Recovers Stolen Car

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Edward Gahn recovered a stolen car in New Holland at 2:50 a. m. today and apprehended three young adults who were in it.

Deputy Gahn spotted the car in the village on the western Pickaway County border he noted persons in it were acting suspiciously.

He stopped the car, ran a license check and discovered the registration was not issued to the car. He then ran a check with the Bureau of Motor Vehicles on the automobile's serial number and discovered it had been stolen in Baltimore, Ohio.

The three adults were arrested. They were identified as Terry Kay Bobb, 18, Crooksville; David D. Albright, 19, Zanesville; and Sandra K. Winters, 18, Lancaster.

MRS. WINTERS had a small baby with her. It was placed in a foster home by the Pickaway County Child Welfare board.

The trio is being held for investigation in connection with several burglaries that have occurred in Pickaway County.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said both men are wanted for violation of parole. The sheriff indicated that Fairfield County authorities will file auto larceny charges against them. In addition, Perry and Muskingum County authorities are anxious to talk to the trio in connection with a series of burglaries in those communities, Sheriff Radcliff said.

Hamp pleaded guilty to grand larceny and to the theft of the bicycle. He pleaded innocent to the three contributing counts and to breaking and entering.

Third Suspect In Robbery Is Apprehended

John Thomas of Lancaster, a third person allegedly involved in the armed robbery at Gourmet Corner Dec. 12, has been apprehended by West Virginia authorities.

Officials from the Pickaway County Sheriff's office and the Circleville Police Department left today to return Thomas to Pickaway County for a court hearing.

Richard Randolph and Ralph Binkley, both of Lancaster, were bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury by Judge Sterling Lamb last Wednesday for their alleged part in the armed robbery.

Both men entered pleas of innocent to accusations filed by Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

Judge Lamb set bond at $15,000 on each man. They were apprehended in Lancaster by Sheriff Radcliff several hours after the robbery had occurred at the N. Court St. and Wilson Ave. Store.

The theft is being investigated by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Charles Jones.

Man Cited Into Court On 6 Charges

Frank Hamp, 21, 613 Hayward Ave., was found guilty on three counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and a charge of petty larceny today in Circleville Municipal Court.

In addition, Hamp was charged with breaking and entering Mound St. School and with grand larceny.

Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb ruled sufficient evidence was presented by Circleville Police Officer Wesley Barton to warrant a grand jury hearing. He bound Hamp to the next session of the Pickaway Grand Jury.

Bond was set at $1,000 on each of the felony charges.

For contributing to delinquency of minors Hamp was fined $100 and costs on each count and sentenced to 90 days in the Pickaway County Jail.

He was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 60 days for bicycle theft.

This Vietnam 'Invasion' U.S. GIs Would Relish

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The GIs in Vietnam are getting ready for a Christmas invasion, and some of it should be fun.

Bob Hope commands the largest task force of invaders, but the bare legs and jokes of his troupe will share the spotlight with Billy Graham, Francis Cardinal Spellman and several congressmen.

Evangelist Graham and the Roman Catholic archbishop of New York both have scheduled trips to military installations and will conduct some religious services.

Hope left Los Angeles Friday with his 69-member fun company for his 15th annual Christmas tour and his 25th journey to entertain American servicemen.

Hope's troupe also includes Phyllis Diller, Joey Heatherton, Anita Bryant, Les Brown and his band, and the Korean Kittens. They will perform in Vietnam, Guam, Thailand and the Philippines.

Gen. Earle Johnson, U.S. Army chief of staff, also will be in Vietnam this week. But the average soldier will be a lot more interested in Chris Noel, a 26-year-old disc jockey who is in Saigon to attract attention for her program. Her 36-24-36 dimensions, mini-skirt eight inches above the knee, green eyes and blonde hair attracted considerable attention on the street Sunday. She will be on the armed forces radio all this week.

Author John Steinbeck also is visiting with troops and four members of Congress are expected to remain for the holidays — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Reps. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., George W.

Grider, D-Tenn., and Lera Thomas, D-Tex.

Although both sides have proclaimed 48-hour cease-fires for Christmas and New Year's, some of the GIs will miss the visiting VIP's because they will be on watch-posts with eyes peeled for an unwanted Viet Cong visitor.

A weekend statement by GE President Fred J. Borch that the company's 1966 earnings would fall somewhat below last year's record level was linked with the weakness in GE stock.

The GE statement came as a surprise to Wall Street.

Delayed by an accumulation of orders, GE plunged 5 points to 88 1/2 on an opening block of 17,400 shares. It trimmed the loss to around 4 points later.

The market was mixed and cautious up to the GE opening. Then many other stocks declined sympathetically.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.6 at 294.7 with industrials off 4.0, rails off .1 and utilities unchanged.

Blodgett, who was not hit, said Sprinkle and Collins fled on foot in opposite directions and he shot Sprinkle. "He fell dead in a drainage ditch alongside the highway," the deputy said.

Ernstes said Collins met him and his wife outside their home, holding a shotgun he had found inside. He was wearing some of Ernstes' clothes.

The couple was ordered into the house, Ernstes said. When he refused Collins struck him with his fist, then prodded him with the shotgun.

"I think he was pretty nervous," Mrs. Ernstes said.

"His own clothes were wet and dirty," she added. "He did everything possible to help his appearance. He even scrapped mud off his shoes."

Ernstes said Collins acted tough at first, but "finally came around after an hour. I pointed out the difference in our ages, and said to him, 'Surely you don't need a gun to defend yourself against us.'"

"He youth then unloaded the shotgun and put it down, Ernstes said.

Mrs. Ernstes cooked bacon and eggs. "He ate well," she said.

Ernstes said the youth told him, "Listen, old man, you've treated me nice. Come dark, I'll slip away. You won't be the worse for it."

Cost Study For Airport Continues

An engineering study to establish an estimated cost for a county airport is well under way, according to Pickaway's Board of Commissioners.

Lloyd Melvin, commission chairman, today said the County Engineering Department has launched survey and soil study work. He indicated the effort will be completed as soon as possible.

Although the initial phase of the study is moving along, Melvin said a final report on the project probably will not be available until the first of the year.

According to the commission chairman, engineer personnel are taking a close look at all construction possibilities in order to come up with an adequate, yet minimum cost estimate.

THE STUDY is being conducted at a Washington Twp. site that includes about 30 acres owned by the county and an adjacent 14-acre tract under option from the Cronan family.

A suggestion to curtail Court-house functions all-day Saturday as part of the Christmas observance was approved by the lawmakers. Offices also will be closed Monday as part of the legal holiday.

The Canadian resolution would have the General Assembly invite member countries to inform the United Nations what forces they can provide if asked "to participate in a duly authorized United Nations peacekeeping operation."

French Ambassador Roger Seydoux told the assembly that "goes beyond the competence of the General Assembly." He said that the authors of the resolution "run the risk of reviving divergencies which were about to lose their seriousness."

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko objected also that the resolution "empowers the General Assembly to finance the operation of United Nations armed forces, which is within the sole competence of the Security Council."

He said its adoption would "shut the door to negotiations" and might "lead to the emergence of situations of crisis" again.

Both delegates however supported a Jamaican resolution to have the assembly recommend that the Security Council negotiate arrangements with U.N. members for peacekeeping forces to be made available at the council's call.

The special political committee recommended both resolutions Wednesday night. Each got better than the two-thirds majority needed for approval in the assembly. Diplomatic sources said the Soviet and French diplomats warned privately that if the assembly adopted the Canadian proposal, they would reconsider whether to stay on the peacekeeping committee.

Dr. Sam, Wife To Visit Germany

CLEVELAND (AP) — Samuel H. Sheppard and his wife will leave for a visit in Germany after the first of the year, Sheppard said Saturday.

Mrs. Sheppard, the former osteopath's second wife, said they will go to Germany so Sheppard could "meet my parents."

She said the trip will last several months so they "get to know one another."

World Publishing Co. here has cancelled a public appearance tour by Sheppard promoting his book, "Endure and Conquer."

A spokesman for the firm said the action was taken for two reasons but declined to elaborate.

Eisenhower Said Mending Nicely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgical stitches were taken out of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower today, one week after removal of his gall bladder.

"The incision has healed nicely," Walter Reed Army Hospital reported.

Gas Station Billed

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department is seeking four men and two women who fled from a South Bloomfield service station Saturday without paying for $3 worth of gasoline.

Mail Box Damaged

Ed Taylor, Route 3, told Pickaway County Sheriff's Department his mailbox was destroyed by vandals either late Saturday or early Sunday morning.

Seven mile north of the demilitarized zone, the destroyer Maddox intercepted 20 cargo junks, destroyed three and damaged four with five-inch gunfire. The attack was part of the Navy's new Operation Traffic Cop against supplies moving by sea from North to South Vietnam.

The first units of the 9th U.S. Infantry Division — "the Old Reliables" — came ashore at Vung Tau, 40 miles southeast of Saigon. Westmoreland served with the division in Europe during World War II.

The 9th's arrival is expected to release other U.S. troops for deployment in the Mekong Delta, the vast, rice-rich area south of Saigon where the Viet Cong is strong. The delta so far has been manned entirely by Vietnamese troops plus several thousand American advisers, helicopter pilots and U.S. Navy river craft personnel.

The U.S. military command announced that units of the 101st Airborne Division were engaged in a new operation in the central highlands 24 miles west-northwest of Koutam City near the Laotian border.

Red China Sunday renewed its offer to send troops to help Communists fighting in Vietnam, but a Viet Cong representative indirectly turned the offer down. The offer was made at a Peking rally by Foreign Minister Chen Yi.

Man Cited Into Court On 6 Charges

Frank Hamp, 21, 613 Hayward Ave., was found guilty on three counts of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and a charge of petty larceny today in Circleville Municipal Court.

In addition, Hamp was charged with breaking and entering Mound St. School and with grand larceny.

Municipal Judge Sterling M. Lamb ruled sufficient evidence was presented by Circleville Police Officer Wesley Barton to warrant a grand jury hearing. He bound Hamp to the next session of the Pickaway Grand Jury.

Bond was set at $1,000 on each of the felony charges.

For contributing to delinquency of minors Hamp was fined $100 and costs on each count and sentenced to 90 days in the Pickaway County Jail.

He was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 60 days for bicycle theft.

Hamp pleaded guilty to grand larceny and to the theft of the bicycle. He pleaded innocent to the three contributing counts and to breaking and entering.

Third Suspect In Robbery Is Apprehended

John Thomas of Lancaster, a third person allegedly involved in the armed robbery at Gourmet Corner Dec. 12, has been apprehended by West Virginia authorities.

Officials from the Pickaway County Sheriff's office and the Circleville Police Department left today to return Thomas to Pickaway County for a court hearing.

Richard Randolph and Ralph Binkley, both of Lancaster, were bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury by Judge Sterling Lamb last Wednesday for their alleged part in the armed robbery.

Both men entered pleas of innocent to accusations filed by Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple and Sheriff Dwight Radcliff.

Judge Lamb set bond at $15,000 on each man. They were apprehended in Lancaster by Sheriff Radcliff several hours after the robbery had occurred at the N. Court St. and Wilson Ave. Store.

Alert Deputy Recovers Stolen Car

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Edward Gahn recovered a stolen car in New Holland at 2:50 a. m. today and apprehended three young adults who were in it.

Deputy Gahn spotted the car in the village on the western Pickaway County border. He noted persons in it were acting suspiciously.

He stopped the car, ran a license check and discovered the registration was not issued to the car. He then ran a check with the Bureau of Motor Vehicles on the automobile's serial number and discovered it had been stolen in Baltimore, Ohio.

The three adults were arrested. They were identified as Terry Kay Bobb, 18, Crooksville; David D. Albright, 19, Zanesville; and Sandra K. Winters, 18, Lancaster.

MRS. WINTERS had a small baby with her. It was placed in a foster home by the Pickaway County Child Welfare board.

The trio is being held for investigation in connection with several burglaries that have occurred in Pickaway County.

Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said both men are wanted for violation of parole. The sheriff indicated that Fairfield County authorities will file auto larceny charges against them. In addition, Perry and Muskingum County authorities are anxious to talk to the trio in connection with a series of burglaries in those communities, Sheriff Radcliff said.

Mainly About People

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McFarland, 408 Stella Ave., are the parents of a 6-pound 2-ounce daughter, born Friday in Riverside Hospital, Columbus.

Mrs. George E. Roth, 137 W. 1st St., is a patient at the Monterey Nursing Inn, 3141 Hooer Road, Grove City.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Frommel, Route 2, Ashville, are the parents of a 6-pound 9-ounce daughter born 8 p. m. Friday in Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus.

Burglary Reported To Sheriff's Staff

Jon Sharrett of Route 1, Kingston, reported to the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department that household utensils and silverware were taken from an unoccupied house on Poling Road.

The theft is being investigated by Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Charles Jones.

This Vietnam 'Invasion' U.S. GIs Would Relish

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The GIs in Vietnam are getting ready for a Christmas invasion, and some of it should be fun.

Bob Hope commands the largest task force of invaders, but the bare legs and jokes of his troupe will share the spotlight with Billy Graham, Francis Cardinal Spellman and several congressmen.

Evangelist Graham and the Roman Catholic archbishop of New York both have scheduled trips to military installations and will conduct some religious services.

Hope left Los Angeles Friday with his 69-member fun company for his 15th annual Christmas tour and his 25th journey to entertain American servicemen.

Hope's troupe also includes Phyllis Diller, Joey Heatherton, Anita Bryant, Les Brown and his band, and the Korean Kittens. They will perform in Vietnam, Guam, Thailand and the Philippines.

Gen. Earle Johnson, U.S. Army chief of staff, also will be in Vietnam this week. But the average soldier will be a lot more interested in Chris Noel, a 26-year-old disc jockey who is in Saigon to attract attention for her program. Her 36-24-36 dimensions, mini-skirt eight inches above the knee, green eyes and blonde hair attracted considerable attention on the street Sunday. She will be on the armed forces radio all this week.

Author John Steinbeck also is visiting with troops and four members of Congress are expected to remain for the holidays — Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Reps. Joseph Y. Resnick, D-N.Y., George W.

Grider, D-Tenn., and Lera Thomas, D-Tex.

Although both sides have proclaimed 48-hour cease-fires for Christmas and New Year's, some of the GIs will miss the visiting VIP's because they will be on watch-posts with eyes peeled for an unwanted Viet Cong visitor.

Stock Market Loss Deepens

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market losses deepened early this afternoon following a sharp decline by General Electric which unsettled the list. Trading was moderately active.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down sharply, losing 10.69 to 796.49.

Weakness in GE spread to other blue chips which are influential in the closely watched Dow average.

A weekend statement by GE President Fred J. Borch that the company's 1966 earnings would fall somewhat below last year's record level was linked with the weakness in GE stock.

The GE statement came as a surprise to Wall Street.

Delayed by an accumulation of orders, GE plunged 5 points to 88 1/2 on an opening block of 17,400 shares. It trimmed the loss to around 4 points later.

The market was mixed and cautious up to the GE opening. Then many other stocks declined sympathetically.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 1.6 at 294.7 with industrials off 4.0, rails off .1 and utilities unchanged.

day on Interstate 74 about three miles east of here.

David Blodgett Jr., 38, of Greensburg, a deputy sheriff with the trooper, said as Rayner approached the auto on foot, Sprinkle stepped out and began firing at both officers. The trooper fell.

Blodgett, who was not hit, said Sprinkle and Collins fled on foot in opposite directions and he shot Sprinkle. "He fell dead in a drainage ditch alongside the highway," the deputy said.

Ernstes said Collins met him and his wife outside their home, holding a shotgun he had found inside. He was wearing some of Ernstes' clothes.

The couple was ordered into the house, Ernstes said. When he refused Collins struck him with his fist, then prodded him with the shotgun.

"I think he was pretty nervous," Mrs. Ernstes said.

"His own clothes were wet and dirty," she added. "He did everything possible to help his appearance. He even scrapped mud off his shoes."

Ernstes said Collins acted tough at first, but "finally came around after an hour. I pointed out the difference in our ages, and said to him, 'Surely you don't need a gun to defend yourself against us.'"

"The youth then unloaded the shotgun and put it down," Ernstes said.

Mrs. Ernstes cooked bacon and eggs. "He ate well," she said.

Ernstes said the youth told him, "Listen, old man, you've treated me nice. Come dark, I'll slip away. You won't be the worse for it."

Cost Study For Airport Continues

An engineering study to establish an estimated cost for a county airport is well under way, according to Pickaway's Board of Commissioners.

Lloyd Melvin, commission chairman, today said the County Engineering Department has launched survey and soil study work. He indicated the effort will be completed as soon as possible.

Although the initial phase of the study is moving along, Melvin said a final report on the project probably will not be available until the first of the year.

According to the commission chairman, engineer personnel are taking a close look at all construction possibilities in order to come up with an adequate, yet minimum cost estimate.

THE STUDY is being conducted at a Washington Twp. site that includes about 30 acres owned by the county and an adjacent 14-acre tract under option from the Cronan family.

A suggestion to curtail Court-house functions all-day Saturday as part of the Christmas observance was approved by the lawmakers. Offices also will be closed Monday as part of the legal holiday.

'Jobless' Redefined

President Johnson has made frequent use of Labor Department statistics on employment to support his period report on the economy's growth. Some Republicans in Congress have expressed the suspicion that the figures were politically slanted.

Employment figures issued monthly by the department are, at best, approximations. The figures on unemployment are even more difficult to estimate since they sometimes depend on the Labor Department's current definition of "unemployed."

Once a month 35,000 households all over the country are interviewed by Census Bureau workers to get a national jobless picture. The jobless rate is then worked out by computer.

But computers cannot account for what the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics calls "ambiguities." For example, a person has been classified as unemployed if he is temporarily absent from work because of a strike or bad weather but is looking for another job. The bureau also counts persons over 14 years of age who are not in school, in institutions or in military service.

But in January the method of counting the jobless will be "more consistent with public understanding of the terms." The chief change will be to drop those of 14 and 15 years of age from the count.

Term Sounded Good

Richard Goodwin, so one of those "inside stories" has it, is the person who recommended that President Johnson replace the New Frontier with something called the Great Society. The phrase, of course, was lifted from the fifty-year-old book, "The Great Society," written by the English Fabian socialist, Graham Wallis. It sounded good, it had a noble and uplifting ring, but like all phrases of the type it was destined from the start to have a limited life. The reason: it would necessarily raise exceptions which, in the nature of things, cannot be satisfied by Washington action.

Goodwin himself recognized this before his departure from the White House as LBJ's adviser.

Now, even before LBJ's first full term of office is half completed, the attrition is well under way. Senators Abe Ribicoff of Connecticut and Bobby Kennedy of New York are already off the LBJ reservation in one direction: they want the Great Society replaced by the Super-Great Society, which will spend a trillion dollars to tear down and rebuild America's central cities. (It's only money, boys and girls.) Then there is the crowd of legislators, both Democratic and Republican, who want to turn the job of wiping out urban blight and taking poison out of the air and the streams over to public corporations that are partly private and partly government-owned. "Comsat-like" is the word for this sort of proposition. Finally, there is Richard Cornuelle, the new vice president in charge of programs at the National Association of Manufacturers. Mr. Cornuelle wants the "independent sector" — the big foundations, the thousands of voluntary associations of one sort or another that may be found in every state, city and hamlet — to take over the welfare and retraining and rebuilding jobs that come with such prohibitive price tags when they are financed out of federal money. Mr. Cornuelle has documented his ideas in a remarkable book called "Reclaiming the American Dream."

This columnist, as a long-time partisan of Mr. Cornuelle, thinks the voluntary approach is the only one that can succeed. Money that is spent through and by politicians is like fool's gold. It vanishes before you can get a grip on it. Partly it goes to sustain bureaucracies, partly it dribbles away in charity that leaves the recipient right where he was before he got it.

Mr. Cornuelle has been pushing his ideas with the help of the so-called "new" National Association of Manufacturers. It must have pleased him no end last week to hear himself singled out as a sociological prophet at the annual meeting of the NAM in New York by no less a person than Governor George Romney of Michigan.

Romney, so it appeared from his speech to the NAM, has brought the Cornuelle theory, hook, line and sinker. He polished it up for Cornuelle in an eloquent oration which spoke of "four-dimensional problem solving" by various "action centers." Listed first by Romney were the people's "voluntary associations," which provide "co-operative action centers." Second, there was listed the "private enterprises which provide independent competitive action centers." Third, there are "state and local governments" which offer "locally oriented action centers close to the people and their control." And fourth and last, as the "action center farthest removed from the people's direction and control," there is the federal government, clearly a center of "last resort" in the Romney estimation.

The truly interesting thing about the Romney speech was that it took off from a recital of actual experience in Michigan, responding to the urgings of a University of Michigan sociology professor, have been giving voluntary time to help with remedial teaching in the grade schools, and where private philanthropists have been putting up money to enable communities such as Flint and Iron Mountain to finance "community school" programs that make use of school facilities on a day-and-night, all-year-around basis.

Romney is billed as a "liberal," but the stuff he fed the NAM executives was something that made little connection with the cliché spectrum that has afflicted American political reporting for the past generation. If Romney's line represents enduring convictions, and if he can keep turning up instances to prove the feasibility of those convictions, the Republican conservatives may find themselves charmed into agreeing with the liberals that he is a man for 1968. Provided, of course, that foreign policy is not the distracting issue of the time.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP) — Upon us now is a season commonly referred to as winter by some but more often as the ski season by somewhere between 1.5 million and 6 million Americans.

Since nobody knows the definition of a skier, the estimates vary widely. The people who operate the ski areas say, however, that at least two million individuals ski regularly and often.

As the definition of a skier broadens, however, so do the figures.

Many people, for example, buy ski clothes and never ski, spend money on transportation to ski resorts but then sit in the secure feeling they give when rested on the bar's brass rail.

In some statistics, however, all these count as skiers. This leads to the distinction of skiing as a sport and skiing as an industry. The latter is, of course, larger.

So rapidly is the skiing industry growing now that it threatens to encompass much of fall and some of spring as well as all the winter months. Even in summer, in fact, ski movies have a popular following.

From this growing activity and its related pastimes, the retailers of clothes and equipment, of transportation and room and board, expect to earn $750 million this season. This is the industry's own estimate.

The figure goes up about 15 per cent each year and, based on reportedly higher sales of clothing and equipment early this season, may grow at an extreme rate of 20 per cent this season.

Skiing is not the most violent of sports but it is, unquestionably, one of the more violent participant sports. The industry, however, does not boast of its busted bones with the same enthusiasm as it brags of sales.

In just one weekend early this year at least 450 skiers were injured badly enough on New England ski slopes to need medical treatment, many of them with broken bones. These figures are a minimum, for the survey was far from complete.

An estimate comes from a casualty insurance company that about six of every 1,000 active skiers on a given day will be injured and that about 55 per cent of them will be beginners.

Although the economic loss may be small in many of the accident cases, it can run into thousands of dollars and the loss of months of work. Ski injuries often are twist injuries, resulting in displacement as well as fracture.

In most instances individual or group insurance policies pay much of the medical bills for, generally speaking, the insurance companies consider skiing accidents no different than other accidents.

A dispassionate attitude also exists among participants. At a large New York life insurance company last week the activities committee made plans for a ski trip to upstate New York.

Said a spokesman: "Why should we be worried about injuries? Last year we had four girls injured in bicycle accidents in Bermuda. We didn't have that many from skiing."

Letter To The Editor

To the Editor:

With great interest I have read about demands of the school board for operating funds and have failed to find any statement where an economical program is offered.

It amuses me since the levy failed to pass, because now they will have to think of economizing. Perhaps they will feel some of the pinch retired people and those with fixed incomes have these days.

We do need good teachers and good salaries for them. But why does the money have to come from property owners? According to information available 60 to 70 per cent of the school children come from rented home families who never pay one cent for school taxes.

Why not have an income tax of one-half or three-quarters of a cent so more can share the school expense, instead of the 30 to 40 per cent who now carry the entire load.

In a world whose major philosophy seems to be "getting to live", it is refreshing to approach a season which places an emphasis on "giving to live".

At this time of year the air is electrified with "peace on earth, good will toward men." Our hearts vibrate with a closer walk with all humanity. We criticize less, and love more. Giving becomes more of a joy, than receiving. The Golden Rule becomes more a part of our Soul than just memorized lines.

It is significant that the first Christmas gift was not "to a life" but "of a life." God expressed His love for the world He created by "giving His Son" to give us His way of life — and a dawn of a new age was ushered in with the birth of Christ. His message gave birth to a new philosophy which was, indeed, destined to end an era of chaos.

Giving and love go hand in hand. Because of love, Jesus gave Himself for us. Hence, we cannot do less than give of ourselves when we seek to express our love and gratitude to God and to others.

Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic.

Worth remembering: "Trouble is only opportunity in work clothes."

In remote parts of the South Pacific it is reported that a wife can still be bought for the equivalent of $3 in cash. While this seems like a bargain, few of these wives have much of a trade-in value.

It was Mark Twain who observed, "In all my travels the thing that has impressed me the most is the universal brotherhood of man — what there is of it."

Christmas Is a Giving Experience

DR. HERMAN H. SHUTTLEWORTH
Chiropractor

In a world whose major philosophy seems to be "getting to live", it is refreshing to approach a season which places an emphasis on "Giving to live".

At this time of year the air is electrified with "peace on earth, good will toward men." Our hearts vibrate with a closer walk with all humanity. We criticize less, and love more. Giving becomes more of a joy, than receiving. The Golden Rule becomes more a part of our Soul than just memorized lines.

It is significant that the first Christmas gift was not "to a life" but "of a life". God expressed His love for the world He created by "giving His Son" to give us His way of life — and a dawn of a new age was ushered in with the birth of Christ. His message gave birth to a new philosophy which was, indeed, destined to end an era of chaos.

Giving and love go hand in hand. Because of love, Jesus gave Himself for us. Hence, we cannot do less than give of ourselves when we seek to express our love and gratitude to God and to others.

To catch this spirit in our hearts is to face the most marvelous Christmas ever. One never really lives until he stops trying to save himself and begins losing himself to something BIGGER than he is. It is a law of spiritual compensation that if "we give to the world the best we have, the best will come back to us", and often in greater abundance.

Knowing that the greatest good comes from helping others, giving you this food for thought — instead of successful case histories — gives me a great joy as I know it did to Dr. James W. Parker, who gave it to me and taught me how to use it every day in our busy life.

We cherish for each reader along with our many friends and patients the exhilarating experience of "giving himself away". You have something wonderful to give that someone else needs. Discover for yourself this Christmas that it is "far better to give than to receive".

Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic.

Record Steel Year Assured

CLEVELAND (AP) — A new steel production record is assured this year despite a decline in output in recent weeks, Steel Magazine said today.

Last week's output was estimated at 2,355,000 net tons compared with 2,234,000 tons in the corresponding week last year and Steel said that by the end of this week, the year's production will have exceeded the record 131.5 million tons produced in 1965.

The weekly journal of metal-working said that steel inventories at consumers' plants are low in relation to consumption and order backlogs, which makes a strong argument for revival soon in both demand and production.

"In relation to consumption, inventories are lower than they were two years ago," Steel said. "Consumption then at manufacturing plants was averaging five million tons a month. Now it is close to six million."

It added that prospects are good for a continued high rate of steel consumption despite the current slowdown in the automobile industry, the No. 1 steel user.

"At the beginning of November, the nation's durable goods industries had a record high backlog of orders: $76,234,000,000," Steel continued. "That's 43 per cent above the $53,406,000,000 backlog two years ago. At current rates of production, the present backlog is equivalent to 3.3 months of output. Two years ago the corresponding figure was only 2.9 months."

As inventories at the steel mills climbed, enabling the mills to give prompt delivery, buyers saw an opportunity to reduce their inventories, the magazine said, pointing out that there is no immediate need for inventory building on the part of consumers.

The magazine said the automobile industry's cutting of production to fit demand is the heaviest depressant to steel demand. It pointed out also that the construction industry, the nation's second largest steel user, is in a seasonal downturn and has trimmed its steel buying accordingly.

Steel said that as a result of the decline in steelmaking operations and the approaching holiday season, its composite price on No. 1 heavy meltings crop dropped 67 cents to $27.50 a gross ton last week.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Far Better To Give Than To Receive

DEAR ABBY: Now that Christmas is nearly here, I want to air something that has irritated me for a long time. It's people who don't send Christmas gifts anymore. Instead they send you a tacky card informing you that "a gift in your name" has been sent to THEIR favorite charity. That way they don't have to bother shopping for Christmas gifts, and all their "gifts" are listed as a deductible expense on their tax return. Pretty cute, if you ask me.

"WISE" IN NEW HAVEN DEAR WISE: Sorry, but I disagree. I think one of the more civilized practices of recent years is donating to charity instead of sending extravagant gifts to people who already have more than they need.

Knowing that a contribution to a worthy cause had been made in my name would be "gift" enough for me. He who takes but never gives may last for years, but never lives.

DEAR ABBY: Seven years ago I did a terrible thing. I had an affair with a man. His wife sued him for divorce, but they went back together again, thank God.

My wonderful husband forgave me, and we moved out of town. I have found God now and am leading a good life.

I am a teacher's aid at school. When school started last fall I found out that the wife of the man I had the affair with is our student counselor. She can ruin my whole life by telling the other teachers about my past.

Should we move again? The dear Lord knows I have suffered enough for my sins. I am getting very nervous over this. Please answer soon.

DESPERATE DEAR DESPERATE: Hands off the panic button. Stay where you are for the present. In all probability she will not disclose your past because of her husband's role in it. Forget it and continue to lead the good life.

DEAR ABBY: We have some friends whose teen-aged son was killed recently. Wanting to be of some help, I fried three chickens, wrapped them in aluminum foil and sent them to their home in a large cardboard box. I thought that poor mother had enough on her mind without worrying about returning a fancy platter or tray.

A friend told me that I should not have sent the chicken over that way — that it looked like I didn't "trust" the family to return my platter. Was I wrong?

WONDERING DEAR WONDERING: In my book you were extremely considerate to have sent the chicken in a disposable container. (Others could learn from you.) But I am wondering what kind of "friend" would be so unkind as to plant such a preposterous notion in your mind?

CONFIDENTIAL TO PAMELA P. — wherever you are. Please contact your mother to let her know that you are well. She is sick with worry. No questions will be asked.

FOE Women
Meet in
Aerie Home

The FOE No. 685 Ladies Auxiliary met for their regular meeting at the Aerie home. Madam President Inez Tucker presided.

A report was given by Esther Olney on the annual Christmas party held recently. A rundown was offered by Mrs. Janet Ritter on the families selected to receive baskets of food donated by members of the Auxiliary.

Members will meet in the Aerie home on Thursday to prepare for Santa's visit on Friday.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 5. All members are invited to attend.

Note from the convenience-food department: cheddar cheese, cut into neat cubes, comes in a see-through package along with cocktail picks.

I am a teacher's aid at school. When school started last fall I found out that the wife of the man I had the affair with is our student counselor. She can ruin my whole life by telling the other teachers about my past.

Should we move again? The dear Lord knows I have suffered enough for my sins. I am getting very nervous over this. Please answer soon.

DEAR DESPERATE: Hands off the panic button. Stay where you are for the present. In all probability she will not disclose your past because of her husband's role in it. Forget it and continue to lead the good life.

DEAR ABBY: We have some friends whose teen-aged son was killed recently. Wanting to be of some help, I fried three chickens, wrapped them in aluminum foil and sent them to their home in a large cardboard box. I thought that poor mother had enough on her mind without worrying about returning a fancy platter or tray.

A friend told me that I should not have sent the chicken over that way — that it looked like I didn't "trust" the family to return my platter. Was I wrong?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: In my book you were extremely considerate to have sent the chicken in a disposable container. (Others could learn from you.) But I am wondering what kind of "friend" would be so unkind as to plant such a preposterous notion in your mind?

CONFIDENTIAL TO PAMELA P. — wherever you are. Please contact your mother to let her know that you are well. She is sick with worry. No questions will be asked.

FOE Women
Meet in
Aerie Home

The FOE No. 685 Ladies Auxiliary met for their regular meeting at the Aerie home. Madam President Inez Tucker presided.

A report was given by Esther Olney on the annual Christmas party held recently. A rundown was offered by Mrs. Janet Ritter on the families selected to receive baskets of food donated by members of the Auxiliary.

Members will meet in the Aerie home on Thursday to prepare for Santa's visit on Friday.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 5. All members are invited to attend.

Note from the convenience-food department: cheddar cheese, cut into neat cubes, comes in a see-through package along with cocktail picks.

NEW YORK (AP) — With delicate animation of the characters and a chilling narration by Boris Karloff, "The Grinch Who Stole Christmas" lost nothing and even gained something in its transition from the printed page to the television screen.

The grotesquely imaginative drawings by Dr. Seuss came to life in the half-hour Christmas fable on CBS Sunday night. It was one of the rare children's shows that are really interesting to adults.

It was a pretty grim tale, how that "nasty fellow who slithered and slunk" hated Christmas and went into all the happy homes of Whoville Christmas Eve disguised as Santa Claus and stole all the evidences of the holiday — gifts, feasts and even the trees and their decorations. The trouble with the Grinch, it was explained was simply that his heart was three sizes too small.

But there was a happy ending. The Whoville folks, undaunted by the loss of the presents, welcomed Christmas anyway. And the sour old Grinch suddenly realized that "maybe Christmas doesn't come from a store — maybe Christmas means a little bit more."

There will be another of what CBS calls "family fun shows" on the network early this evening. The famous Prince Street players will present their adaptation of "Jack and the Beanstalk." The children's tale, set to music, has been carefully rewritten to eliminate its more brutal aspects.

Will B. Able, the tall actor who plays what originally was an ogre, has been transformed into what he describes as "a good but stupid giant."

Christmas spirit was spread thick over the networks during the weekend. Lorne Greene and some young choristers took over an NBC half-hour Saturday for some holiday music, and there was the usual Telephone Hour Christmas show Sunday night, a happy combination of aired and traditional music.

Chet Huntley presented a short tribute to the late Walt Disney at the opening of the Disney Hour on NBC Sunday night.

ABC plans a special in February on "The Mini-Skirt Rebellion," a light, bright subject which will be welcome as a change.

In connection with these short, short skirts, many of the current TV programs likely will look extremely dated in the reruns in a couple of seasons with so many of the girls in over-the-knee skirts and dancing the frug. Fads and fashions die very fast.

Labor's Victory In '68 Dubious

By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor triumphed over the White House and business in its fight for higher wages in 1966 but lost ground in prices and politics.
The result spells trouble for the unions in the new Congress and in the coming year's major bargaining table collisions with industry.
Labor victories in breaching White House wage guidelines in the past year's biggest contract settlements had a somewhat empty ring in light of the sharp rise in living costs in a decade.
Cost-of-living wage escalators — the workers' insurance policy against inflation — became a prime union demand again after years of decline.
After many of their candidates went down to defeat in the November elections, labor leaders became increasingly apprehensive about possible hostile legislation in Congress in 1967.
AFL-CIO President George Meany foresaw the possibility of a compulsory arbitration law to prevent walkouts like last summer's airlines strike, and maybe even wage-price controls.

"We don't look forward to that with any great feeling of delight," Meany said in behalf of the big labor federation's 13.5 million members in 129 unions.
Some 35,000 machinists won annual wage and fringe benefit increases of five per cent or more after a six-week strike that grounded five major airlines. In the process, they handed President Johnson his first defeat in major labor cases by rejecting one contract proposal negotiated in the White House.
Later, about 180,000 members of 11 unions won a similar size contract increase from the giants of the electrical industry, General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric Corp.
Labor did get a new minimum wage law, hiking the present $1.25 an hour minimum to $1.40 next February and to $1.60 in February 1968.
The five per cent contract gains, and the emphasis on cost-of-living protection against inflation, set a trend that put in limbo the government's efforts to hold wage hikes to 3.2 per cent a year under White House economic guidelines.
The government also increasingly warned of threats to the Viet Nam war effort in coping with a rash of strikes involving defense products ranging from electronic tubes to jet aircraft engines.
The questions of national interest, vital defense production, and the economic argument over inflation are sure to heighten in the series of major contract negotiations coming up in 1967.
These involve several million workers in trucking, auto manufacturing, rubber, clothing, telephone, paper, leather food processing and other industries.
In politics the AFL-CIO started off the year irked at the Democratic administration for what it termed failure to deliver past campaign promises to labor but returned to the fold in time to share the party's remorse at the big Democratic losses to the Republicans at election time.
Meany warned that labor must work to prevent "strangulation" of recently enacted programs for medical care, education, antipoverty and other Great Society legislation.
Labor was unable to win repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, legalize construction site picketing, or improve unemployment compensation in the heavily Democratic 89th Congress, and chances for these proposals in the new 90th appeared poor.
"Pretty dim," Meany said glumly of the chances of reviving the bill to repeal Section 14B, which now sanctions state laws prohibiting union shop contracts under which all employees must join the union.

In another labor event of the past year, James R. Hoffa was re-elected president of the independent Teamsters Union despite 13 years in pending prison sentences. His jury-tampering and mail fraud convictions are under appeal.
Meany and Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, the principal architects of the 11-year-old AFL-CIO, clashed bitterly in a dispute over the federation's hard-line foreign policy.
Reuther accused Meany of undermining President Johnson's "bridge-building" efforts to ease tensions with the Communist world.
"We don't believe you can build bridges to countries that oppress workers," said Meany.
A rash of strikes and strike threats grew from a relatively new quarter — public employees such as firemen, policemen, teachers, hospital workers and transit employees.

These labor troubles raised anew the question of whether city and state employees should have the right to strike.
In one such case, a garbage-men's strike in a well-to-do Maryland suburb near Washington raised a stink around the homes of many prominent federal officials, including Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.
The surprise retirement of David D. Dubinsky, 74, after 34 years as president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union added to the list of old line labor leaders removed from the active scene.
The diminutive, pixie-like Dubinsky had enlivened many a labor meeting with his puckish sense of humor. When Meany was demanding a $2 minimum wage, Dubinsky said he'd settle for $1.98.

THIS SANTA won't get very far along that Christmas stop list if she wakes up some of the growing boys. She is Karen Ercole of Schenectady, N.Y.

NATO Turns to Soviet Bloc in Reconciliation Effort

PARIS (AP) — Western nations that built the Atlantic alliance 17 years ago to oppose Soviet military might now have taken a hopeful look eastward for reconciliation with the Soviet bloc.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization Ministerial Council agreed Friday on new steps for "better relations with the East."

In their final communique after two days of talks, the foreign, defense and finance ministers put aside the usual strident remarks reserved for the Soviet Union.

"The members of the Atlantic alliance have confirmed their intention to continue their efforts to secure better relations with the Soviet Union and the states of Eastern Europe in the political, economic, social, scientific and cultural fields."

They said they hoped "to bring about conditions which could permit a gradual and balanced revision in force levels on both sides."

The new NATO sanction of détente with Eastern Europe follows a series of individual allied contacts with the Communist countries — 85 since last June alone, according to the NATO secretariat.

France, which has withdrawn from NATO's integrated military command, has been the most active, wooing the European Communists on its own initiative.

Other NATO partners believe a collective approach to the East is better.

But the difference was buried under the ministers' declaration.

The communiqué said: "In the field of East-West relations, there are clearly different approaches which can be adopted, whether between individual countries or in a wider international framework."

Because France no longer takes part in discussions of NATO military policy, her 14 allies decided without her to establish a seven-nation nuclear planning group which gives the smaller allies a voice in nuclear planning for the first time.

The group was designed largely to meet German aspirations for a voice in alliance nuclear strategy while still leaving the door open for a U.S. Soviet agreement banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

The ministers also: —Pledged a continued effort to gain the peaceful reunification of Germany.

—Decided to build a temporary political headquarters near Brussels and to move into it in nine months, and ordered a permanent headquarters in Brussels to be ready by 1969.

—Approved a review of NATO goals and organization to be ready in preliminary form when the council holds its spring meeting next May in Luxembourg.

—Agreed on an experimental communications satellite project and a study of the feasibility of a full-scale NATO communications satellite program.

Labor's Victory In '68 Dubious

By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor triumphed over the White House and business in its fight for higher wages in 1966 but lost ground in prices and politics.
The result spells trouble for the unions in the new Congress and in the coming year's major bargaining table collisions with industry.
Labor victories in breaching White House wage guidelines in the past year's biggest contract settlements had a somewhat empty ring in light of the sharp rise in living costs in a decade.
Cost-of-living wage escalators — the workers' insurance policy against inflation — became a prime union demand again after years of decline.
And after many of their candidates went down to defeat in the November elections, labor leaders became increasingly apprehensive about possible hostile legislation in Congress in 1967.
AFL-CIO President George Meany foresaw the possibility of a compulsory arbitration law to prevent walkouts like last summer's airlines strike, and maybe even wage-price controls.

"We don't look forward to that with any great feeling of delight," Meany said in behalf of the big labor federation's 13.5 million members in 129 unions.
Some 35,000 machinists won annual wage and fringe benefit increases of five per cent or more after a six-week strike that grounded five major airlines. In the process, they handed President Johnson his first defeat in major labor cases by rejecting one contract proposal negotiated in the White House.
Later, about 180,000 members of 11 unions won a similar size contract increase from the giants of the electrical industry, General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric Corp.
Labor did get a new minimum wage law, hiking the present $1.25 an hour minimum to $1.40 next February and to $1.60 in February 1968.
The five per cent contract gains, and the emphasis on cost-of-living protection against inflation, set a trend that put in limbo the government's efforts to hold wage hikes to 3.2 per cent a year under White House economic guidelines.
The government also increasingly warned of threats to the Viet Nam war effort in coping with a rash of strikes involving defense products ranging from electronic tubes to jet aircraft engines.
The questions of national interest, vital defense production, and the economic argument over inflation are sure to heighten in the series of major contract negotiations coming up in 1967.
These involve several million workers in trucking, auto manufacturing, rubber, clothing, telephone, paper, leather food processing and other industries.
In politics the AFL-CIO started off the year irked at the Democratic administration for what it termed failure to deliver past campaign promises to labor but returned to the fold in time to share the party's remorse at the big Democratic losses to the Republicans at election time.
Meany warned that labor must work to prevent "strangulation" of recently enacted programs for medical care, education, antipoverty and other Great Society legislation.
Labor was unable to win repeal of Section 14B of the Taft-Hartley Act, legalize construction site picketing, or improve unemployment compensation in the heavily Democratic 89th Congress, and chances for these proposals in the new 90th appeared poor.
"Pretty dim," Meany said glumly of the chances of reviving the bill to repeal Section 14B, which now sanctions state laws prohibiting union shop contracts under which all employees must join the union.

Murder Suspect
To Be Arraigned
CINCINNATI (AP) — Postal Laskey Jr., 29, indicted on a first-degree murder charge in the death of a 31-year-old secretary, will be arraigned Monday in Common Pleas Court.
The indictment was returned Friday by the grand jury.
The secretary, Miss Barbara Bowman, was killed Aug. 14. She was stabbed fatally after taking a taxicab home from a tavern. Police said the cab was stolen and the driver was posing as a taxi driver.

Santa and the Giant Fighter

By Lucrece Beale

Synopsis: Billy makes friends with the dragon. He says if the dragon help him to free the moon he can live in Santa Land forever. Together they stumble on the right words to open the moon box.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN

GOKO IN A RAGE

"It's the magic words!" shouted the dragon. "Your own name has opened the box!" Billy watched joyfully as the box opened wide and the big yellow moon bulged into the cave.

"How will we get it out?" he wailed. "We are three miles beneath the ground and it would never fit into the Go-Bucket."

"We'll go the way the giant brought me down here," wheezed the dragon.

He was wheezing because the moon almost filled the cave and there was very little room to breathe. He pointed to a wide unmailed leading out of the cave. "Push it up there!" he gasped.

Goko was enraged. "Idiots! Bunglers!" he roared.

Billy clambered into a corner and pushed and shoved the moon through the opening to the stairs. It was like trying to get a balloon through the eye of a needle. No matter how he pinched and twisted and tilted, edges of the moon kept bulging and swelling back into the cave.

Then the dragon put all his weight behind Billy and wham the moon plopped into the staircase. Billy and the dragon squeezed onto the steps behind the moon. The dragon stepped on a button and the staircase started moving. They shot up faster than the Go-Bucket had come down and before Billy could catch his breath they reached the surface.

The moon burst out of the hole and sailed off into the sky. The dragon thumped his tail up and down. "Now do you think I can live in Santa Land?" he asked.

"I am sure of it," said Billy. "But you must make your way there alone for I am off to slay the wicked giant."

He put on the slippers the Harp Witch had given to Santa, waved goodbye to the happy dragon and strode away.

Meantime at the giant's castle all was pandemonium. Goko had awakened just in time to see the moon setting beyond the sea. He howled the castle awake. He tramped through the halls bellowing and squalling and smashing furniture.

When the other giants heard him coming they hid under their beds. They locked themselves in closets. They climbed up the chimneys. They cowered under the piano.

It made no difference. Goko found them. He thrashed them with his club and bashed their heads together and threw them down the stairs.

They begged him to tell them what caused his displeasure. "Idiots! Bunglers!" he roared. "You have let the moon go free. Now my life is in danger for the Fairy Queen said I would be slain by the light of the moon."

"But, master," quavered a quivering mouse of a giant. "We can catch the moon when it sets again tomorrow!"

"And what of tonight?" screamed Goko. "The moon will shine the whole night long!"

"But, sire," sputtered a second trembling giant. "The Fairy Queen said a boy will slay you and there is no boy here!"

"You are all boys!" shouted Goko. "You are pigeon-hearted, milk-livered pygmies, every one!"

"Yes, your majesty," whimpered a twitching giant. "But the Queen said it would be a real live human boy and there's never been such a one in this land."

"True," snarled Goko, "and it will be your job to see there never is. Set guards at every door and window. You will get

Ohio Runs An Expensive Laugh Show

CLEVELAND (AP)—Taxpayers here are spending $3 million a year to maintain a juvenile court system that has become a laughing mater for area delinquents.

Statewide taxpayers contribute $20 million a year to maintain the Ohio Youth Commission, which, according to U. S. District Judge Don J. Young of Toledo, is operating "the largest system of concentration camps for children in the world."

Cuyahoga County Juvenile Court judges have no place to send troubled youngsters except to the Youth Commission. Local juvenile delinquents know their chances for probation are nine out of 10. And probation contacts average about 36 minutes a month.

If sent to the Youth Commission, youngsters know they will be back home as long as they stay out of trouble while they are there.

If taxpayers already are spending $23 million a year and the results are almost entirely negative, what happens now? Experts in the field say:

"Increase the $20 million the state is spending annually to $36 million and then, to meet anticipated needs for the rehabilitative efforts by 1970, provide another $30.8 million in a capital improvement program."

There is little likelihood that this will happen. If not, Judge Young, who served as a juvenile court judge in Huron County 12 years before being appointed to the federal bench 18 months ago, said:

"For lack of resources, the juvenile courts in Ohio are continuously forced to condemn many of the children who come before them to the doom of an almost certain criminal career."

To do any good at all, juvenile court judges feel that a youngster committed to a state institution should be kept a year, if the institution has a staff capable of helping him.

"Every juvenile court judge of any experience can give numerous examples of a boy returned home after too short a stay in one of our institutions who, when he comes into court again is with one or two or more boys who are first offenders," Judge Young said.

In describing Ohio as being a stingy state in spending money for the rehabilitation of its troubled youth, Judge Young said that citizens were being deceived if they thought money was being saved.

"It has been estimated that Ohio's crime bill runs around $2 billion a year," he said. "Each of us must pay his share."

"The persons whose insurance premiums are increased a little does not notice this too much, but the person whose home is robbed, or whose car is stolen or wrecked, begins to feel the pinch."

"The family whose daughter is assaulted on the street, or whose father is killed by an armed robber, really feels the payment it is making."

"It is senseless to say we cannot afford a real program of treatment for children in trouble. By not doing so, we are shutting ourselves off from the only real method there is to reduce the mounting toll of money and agony taken by crime and delinquency."

"The harsh reality is that we cannot protect ourselves by such simple methods of getting tough with young offenders, unless we go back to methods used two or three hundred years ago when even petty thieves were hung in bunches."

Christmas Toll May Reach 750

CHICAGO (AP) — A Christmas weekend traffic death toll of between 650 and 750 persons was estimated today by the National Safety Council.

The holiday period covered is from 6 p. m. Friday, Dec. 23 to midnight Monday, Dec. 26.

The council said that in a non-holiday period of equal length at this time of year the toll would be about 525.

Disney Had Unique Place In Entertainment World

EDITOR'S NOTE — Walter Elias Disney was a very special man, even in Hollywood, headquarters for offbeat types. His career was unique. And Disney the man differed materially from his public image. AP columnist Bob Thomas, author of two books about Disney and his methods, writes knowledgeably about the famed movie innovator in five stories beginning today.

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What kind of man was Walt Disney? Everyone knows the public image. It's one forth every Sunday night on his television show as he genially introduced the entertainment that his studio had concocted. He was folksy, down-to-earth, the perfect picture of anyone's favorite uncle.

The Disney image was also projected in the films he made over a 40-year period. Almost invariably they were sunny, optimistic and wholesome — completely suitable for family audiences.

Rarely did he swerve from that formula. Parents gasped when a modern couple sipped martinis in a Disney film, "The Parent Trap." His venture into sexy scenes began and ended with a sequence in "Bon Voyage" when a Parisian prostitute engaged Fred MacMurray in a bit of banter in front of his teenage son.

"That was a disaster," Walt admitted later. "You should have seen the mail I got over it. I'll never do that again."

His public appearances and his movies tended to create a somewhat antiseptic image of Walt Disney. Behind the image was a human being, a man of rare talent but possessed with normal feelings and frailties.

He was no prude. His boyhood on a Missouri farm provided him with a realistic attitude toward sex. But he felt that it had no place on the screen.

He was a taskmaster. He expected of his employees the same loyalty and zeal that he applied to the studio: when they failed him, he fired them.

Yet Disney was quick to reward merit and achievement. Many of his employees continued on the staff for decades: one of them, Ubilwerks, began cartooning with Walt in Kansas City in 1920.

Walt rarely relaxed. Occasionally he had a drink with key personnel after the day's work was finished. More often he would pack scripts and reports into his brief case and head for home, where he spent the evening reading or watching films.

Only twice did he seek interests outside his studio life; each time he was forced into it. During the early 1930s, he was on the verge of a nervous breakdown from overwork. "Find a hobby," his doctors told him.

He found a vigorous one: playing polo with such figures as Will Rogers, Spencer Tracy, Darryl Zanuck and Charles Farrell. But the hobby didn't last.

After World War II, Disney again approached the brink of exhaustion as he fought to reshape his product to the peacetime market. This time he took up the hobby of miniature trains, and he plunged into a home railroad with his usual vigor. Out of it came his ideas for Disneyland.

Like many great men, Walt Disney was a loner. He knew each day the loneliness of making command decisions that might require the outlay of millions and perhaps place his whole enterprise in jeopardy.

His personal life was solitary. He had a few close friends, mostly businessmen of a conservative nature. He and his wife Lillian seldom appeared at Hollywood parties. On rare occasions he attended a banquet, often to receive an award. But such gatherings made him uncomfortable, and he was always happy to leave.

His favorite retreat was the Smoke Tree Ranch near Palm Springs, where he liked to retire for long weekends whenever his work schedule permitted. There Lillian tended her flower garden while Walt rode horseback through the desert hills. He returned to the studio refreshed and brimming with ideas to please and delight the world's audiences.

Charity Ball Rated Success

Approximately 225 couples attended the annual Charity Ball Friday night at the Coliseum.

The fund-raising event, sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club, was rated a success by Sol Rogols, chairman. Although classified as semi-formal, Rogols noted that many couples were in formal wear.

The dance was held from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. with the Cliff Lash Orchestra providing the music. Traditional Yule logs and holiday candles were used on each table along with other Christmas decorations throughout the dance hall.

Proceeds from the social event go to Kiwanis-sponsored charities, including youth scholarships, Children's Home functions, Easter egg hunt and the Pumpkin Show Pet Parade.

Annual Christmas Program Enjoyed by Purina Employees

The joy and friendly cheer that is Christmas predominated when employees of the Circleville Ralston Purina plant gathered Saturday night at the Fairgrounds for their traditional yuletide dinner and program.

Presentation of service awards, gifts for all present, an appearance by Santa Claus and some top-notch entertainment were combined factors that fashioned a delightful evening. The Rev. Henry A. Walters, pastor of the Presbyterian Church and Purina's new chaplain for the year, offered the Christmas message.

James Smith, a buyer at the local plant, served as master of ceremonies.

Presentation of service awards was under the direction of L. D. Varble, plant manager, and John MacKenzie, superintendent. The program was conducted following a turkey dinner prepared and served by members of Emmett Chapel Church.

Local Chapter Heart Assn. Holds Meet

The Pickaway County Chapter of the Central Ohio Heart Assn. held a dinner meeting at the L-K Restaurant to discuss the annual fund raising campaign slated in February.

The purchase of films was authorized by the group.

Present at the meeting were Miss Mary Bueley, district supervisor; Dr. Manuel Sanguily, president; Gordon Frasier, campaign chairman; Mrs. George Meyers, secretary; Miss Ann Short, past county chairman.

The next meeting of the group has been scheduled Jan. 4.

15 Are Killed On Ohio Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

At least 15 persons were killed in Ohio traffic accidents over the weekend, but by comparison with recent months, this represented continuation of a pre-holiday lull in fatal wrecks.

It was the third straight weekend in which fewer than 20 deaths were recorded, a great reduction from the tolls repeatedly amassed through September, October and November. But now come the holidays.

Kennedy Book Dispute May Be Settled Out of Court

NEW YORK (AP) — Spokesmen for two publishers involved in the dispute with the Kennedy family over publication of the book, "The Death of a President," disclosed today that efforts are being made to settle the matter out of court.

The disclosure followed a statement by William Manchester, author of the book, denying that he had broken faith with Mrs. John F. Kennedy or that he had taken advantage of her confidence in him. The book is about the assassination of President Kennedy.

"There are continuing efforts to patch things up," said a spokesman for Harper & Row, Publishers Inc., which plans to bring out the 300,000-word hardcover book in April.

"Every effort will be made to work things out," the spokesman said. "There are always the author's rights and her rights."

Asked if the aim might be to reach some understanding on the separation of deeply personal matter, which Mrs. Kennedy seeks to keep out of the book, from what is considered history, the spokesman replied: "I think that is pretty accurate."

A spokesman for Look magazine, which plans a four-part, 80,000 word serialization of the book starting with the Jan. 10 issue, said:

"Discussions between the lawyers representing the two sides in the dispute are continuing."

The New York Times reported that in Washington, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., brother of the late president, charged that Manchester "now intends to go ahead in violation of the word of his agreement, the spirit of his arrangements and despite the pain he knows it will give Mrs. Kennedy."

In his statement, issued through Look magazine Sunday, Manchester said:

"It has been said that my work is being published prematurely and that magazine serialization was not contemplated by the Kennedy family. This is not so. In the summer of 1966, authorization was given by the family for publication of the book in early 1967, to be preceded by serialization in Look magazine."

"It has been said that I have broken faith with Mrs. Kennedy; that I took advantage of her confidence in me and that I recorded too faithfully her words and emotions. I do not believe this to be so."

"Mrs. Kennedy gave me 10 hours of interviews; I did not, indeed could not, have conducted these interviews without her voluntary cooperation. Mrs. Kennedy herself did not ask to see the manuscript and still hasn't. If she had, I would, of course, have given it to her.

"John Kennedy was my president. To suggest that I would dishonor his memory or my association with him is both cruel and unjust. His standards of excellence have guided me throughout this work."

"I believe John Kennedy, who was himself an historian, would have wanted his countrymen to know the truth of those terrible days, and I have dedicated myself for nearly three years to reliving and reconstructing them so that the truth could be faithfully and accurately recorded."

A hearing on Mrs. Kennedy's suit to block publication is set for Dec. 27. The defendants — Manchester; Harper & Row; and Cowles Communications, Inc., publishers of Look — are scheduled to file written briefs Thursday in reply to the suit.

In her suit, Mrs. Kennedy charged breach of contract, invasion of privacy and infringement of her copyright by unauthorized use of her name in advertisements and promotion.

"However," Manchester said,

Administration Planning More Trade with Soviets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration plans another attempt early next year to persuade Congress to ease restrictions on trade with the nations of Eastern Europe.

The Soviet government apparently favors removal of East-West trade barriers, according to four congressmen who conferred with Soviet trade officials.

"They indicated a very real interest in expanded trade with the United States," Rep. Thomas Ashley, D-Ohio, told a Moscow news conference Sunday.

"The Soviet view as presented to us is that trade between this country and the United States could increase a great deal if it were not for artificial barriers put up by our side," Ashley said.

The administration asked the 89th Congress to lift present restrictions on East-West trade, but the legislation died in the House Ways and Means Committee. Present plans call for its reintroduction after the 90th Congress convenes Jan. 10.

The legislation would end existing tariff discrimination, which averages 50 per cent but reaches 400 per cent or more on some items, on imports from Communist countries except Poland and Yugoslavia.

It would give the President discretionary authority to grant

"in the last analysis, this is my book. Neither Mrs. Kennedy nor any member of the Kennedy family nor anyone else is in any way responsible for my research for the content of my work. It is my responsibility, and I am confident that my book can withstand any objective test—particularly the test of time. I ask only that it be given the chance."

In his statement in Washington, the Times reported, "Sen. Edward Kennedy recalled Sunday that Mr. Manchester had voluntarily signed an agreement promising 'to use the material given him by Mrs. Kennedy only with her consent.'"

"Relying on the protection of his word," Edward Kennedy continued, "she unburdened herself of her personal memories concerning herself and her children, in order to give him some background for his historical research."

"I know she never dreamed that that material which related strictly to her private thoughts and acts — none of it part of the historical record — would ever be made public.

"What is at stake is not his integrity as a writer nor the accuracy of history, but rather the integrity of the commitment and the promise he willingly and voluntarily made."

White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers denied a report that he had read sections of the book and that he was assumed to have relayed his impressions to President Johnson, who reportedly is presented in an unfavorable light in the book.

Commenting on Manchester's statement, Simon H. Rifkind, attorney for Mrs. Kennedy, said:

"I don't know how Mr. Manchester escapes from the fact that he made a promise and now has not lived up to his part of the bargain. I believe strongly in a man keeping his word, particularly when it is in a written memorandum of understanding. There has been no approval from Mrs. Kennedy."

A Look spokesman said the magazine is still going ahead with plans to publish Jan. 10. He said there would be no time to publish a substitute issue and Look would lose an estimated $4.5 million in advertising and circulation revenue if publication is blocked.

Manchester reportedly received $665,000 from Look for the right to serialize portions of the book.

The legislation would end existing tariff discrimination, which averages 50 per cent but reaches 400 per cent or more on some items, on imports from Communist countries except Poland and Yugoslavia.

It would give the President discretionary authority to grant

"most favored-nation" tariff treatment to the Soviet Union and the Communist countries of Eastern Europe. Under this, a nation pays the lowest tariff the United States has granted to any one country.

The President first raised the idea in his 1966 State of the Union message, but Secretary of State Dean Rusk did not submit the bill until May. Speaking about the "winds of change" Rusk argued that the legislation would be "an important element in our balanced strategy for peace" which, he said, calls for resistance to Communist aggression combined with peaceful relations with the Communist world.

Officials described trade as a political tool and said the proposed act would give the President greater flexibility in dealing with Communist countries.

They contend present tariff barriers do not really hurt the Communist countries.

U.S. trade with the Communist world amounted to less than $281 million in 1965, peanuts compared with this country's total trade figure of over $50 billion in the same year. Under the legislation, the outside limit of this trade is probably about $800 million, which could be reached gradually over several years.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — What kind of President Johnson will there be in the White House in these final two years of his first full term?

He seems different from the Johnson of most of the first two years.

For months now this extremely vigorous and aggressive man, an arm-twister and master politician, has been operating within a kind of half-light. He has been seen, he has been heard, but only occasionally.

This in itself is extraordinary. It is a switch from his earlier White House days when he would take to the airwaves two or three times within a week at the drop of a bomb in the Dominican Republic.

Within the past few months a change seemed to set in.

Instead of devoting every possible minute to campaigning for Democrats who needed all the help they could get in the November elections, he went off to Manila and toured East Asia for a couple of weeks.

It was a trip which, it seems reasonable to believe, could have been made earlier or postponed even until 1967.

Last week Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa told newsmen that Democratic state executives attending the National Governors Conference at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., were almost unanimous in blaming Johnson's unpopularity and his administration's programs for the party's poor showing last November.

This isn't the only rebuff for Johnson. He has seen the public opinion polls show his popularity going down. Yet he seems to be doing no more to help himself, in a public relations way, than he did to help his party.

This doesn't add up. He is being criticized — although why this has started at this time is not at all clear — for the "credibility gap" in what is said by himself and his administration. Johnson, an extremely sensitive man who in the past has hungered for public approval, smarts under this kind of criticism. But he isn't taking any action, at least publicly, to meet this, either.

Instead, he almost seems withdrawn. This could be explained, of course, on several grounds: after the elections he had some minor surgery, then he went to Texas to recuperate, then he had to get busy there on his whole program for 1967. He will hand Congress most of it when it returns in January.

But the explanation, sound as it is, seems a little unreal when Johnson's boundless energy rush for the microphone, dash to the television screen in other days are remembered. He always fought back. He doesn't seem to be fighting back now.

The question is: Will he fight back in 1967? He will have to if he intends to run again in 1968.

But he has a terrible monkey on his back, the war in Vietnam, which by the very nature of its unsolved, dragged-out condition is bound to cost him some popularity and confidence, no matter what else good he does.

And the cost of the war is bound to force him to cut down on domestic programs which, without the war, could be expanded. He has rough going all the way. But other presidents have had rough problems, to.

When all the handicaps of his problems are added together, they still don't explain why this dynamic man let his Democrats fend for themselves at election time, when he is the leader, why he has become almost silent, or why he is publicly doing so little to help himself.

Russian Man-in-Street Gets Some Unhappy News

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP News Analyst

Ivan Ivanovich has had a bit of bad news.

The Russian man in the street suspects he must put aside some of his dreams.

He will be given to understand "the U.S. imperialists" in Vietnam are mostly to blame. He also will get the idea that Red China is partly to blame, too, and he will resent that even more.

Those who know Russians well say that when the Soviet regime announces an increase in the military budget, Ivan can only feel a pang of dismay. This reaction is instinctive. Higher up the social and educational ladder there is more sophisticated knowledge of what goes on. This generates a clash between intellectual elements and the conservative faction of the Communist bureaucracy, and division along these lines appears to extend all the way up to the summit of the leadership.

Thus, the Soviet budget announced last week can cause new strains.

'Rebels' Honor Greatest Rebel Of Them All

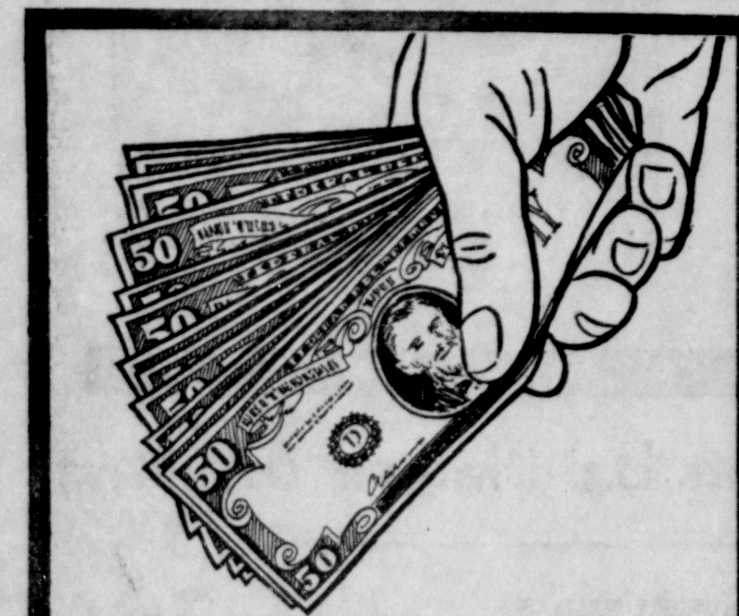

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pershing Square, more accustomed to political protests, celebrated Ludwig van Beethoven's 196th birthday Friday.

"Happy birthday, Ludwig van Beethoven," youthful voices from Los Angeles area colleges chorused at the great German composer's statue.

The pro-Beethoven crowd cheered as Dr. Feri Roth, professor of music at UCLA, described him as "one of the greatest human beings in the history of mankind."

Placards proclaiming "Beethoven forever" and "No more shopping days till Beethoven's birthday" surrounded the great man's brooding likeness.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — What kind of President Johnson will there be in the White House in these final two years of his first full term?

He seems different from the Johnson of most of the first two years.

For months now this extremely vigorous and aggressive man, an arm-twister and master politician, has been operating with in a kind of half-light. He has been seen, he has been heard, but only occasionally.

This in itself is extraordinary. It is a switch from his earlier White House days when he would take to the airwaves two or three times within a week at the drop of a bomb in the Dominican Republic.

Within the past few months a change seemed to set in.

Instead of devoting every possible minute to campaigning for Democrats who needed all the help they could get in the November elections, he went off to Manila and toured East Asia for a couple of weeks.

It was a trip which, it seems reasonable to believe, could have been made earlier or postponed even until 1967.

Last week Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa told newsmen that Democratic state executives attending the National Governors Conference at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., were almost unanimous in blaming Johnson's unpopularity and his administration's programs for the party's poor showing last November.

This isn't the only rebuff for Johnson. He has seen the public opinion polls show his popularity going down. Yet he seems to be doing no more to help himself, in a public relations way, than he did to help his party.

This doesn't add up. He is being criticized — although why this has started at this time is not at all clear — for the "credibility gap" in what is said by himself and his administration.

Johnson, an extremely sensitive man who in the past has hungered for public approval, smarts under this kind of criticism. But he isn't taking any action, at least publicly, to meet this, either.

Instead, he almost seems withdrawn. This could be explained, of course, on several grounds: after the elections he had some minor surgery, then he went to Texas to recuperate, then he had to get busy there on his whole program for 1967. He will hand Congress most of it when it returns in January.

By James Marlow

But the explanation, sound as it is, seems a little unreal when Johnson's boundless energy rush for the microphone, dash to the television screen in other days are remembered. He always fought back. He doesn't seem to be fighting back now.

The question is: Will he fight back in 1967? He will have to if he intends to run again in 1968.

But he has a terrible monkey on his back, the war in Vietnam, which by the very nature of its unsolved, dragged-out condition is bound to cost him some popularity and confidence, no matter what else good he does.

And the cost of the war is bound to force him to cut down on domestic programs which, without the war, could be expanded. He has rough going all the way. But other presidents have had rough problems, too. When all the handicaps of his problems are added together, they still don't explain why this dynamic man let his Democrats fend for themselves at election time, when he is the leader, why he has become almost silent, or why he is publicly doing so little to help himself.

Russian Man-in-Street Gets Some Unhappy News

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP News Analyst

Ivan Ivanovich has had a bit of bad news.

The Russian man in the street suspects he must put aside some of his dreams.

He will be given to understand "the U.S. imperialists" in Vietnam are mostly to blame. He also will get the idea that Red China is partly to blame, too, and he will resent that even more.

Those who know Russians well say that when the Soviet regime announces an increase in the military budget, Ivan can only feel a pang of dismay. This reaction is instinctive. Higher up the social and educational ladder there is more sophisticated knowledge of what goes on. This generates a clash between intellectual elements and the conservative faction of the Communist bureaucracy, and division along these lines appears to extend all the way up to the summit of the leadership.

Thus, the Soviet budget announced last week can cause new strains.

'Rebels' Honor Greatest Rebel Of Them All

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pershing Square, more accustomed to political protests, celebrated Ludwig van Beethoven's 196th birthday Friday.

"Happy birthday, Ludwig van Beethoven," youthful voices from Los Angeles area colleges chorused at the great German composer's statue.

The pro-Beethoven crowd cheered as Dr. Feri Roth, professor of music at UCLA, described him as "one of the greatest human beings in the history of mankind."

Placards proclaiming "Beethoven forever" and "No more shopping days till Beethoven's birthday" surrounded the great man's brooding likeness.

Westfall Mustangs Lose To Huntington, 66-60

Westfall fell behind 15 points in the first half at Huntington Saturday night and could never get the go ahead bucket, losing 66-60.

The Huntsmen held a 19-15 lead at the end of the first quarter and built that to a 15-point margin in the second. However, three quick buckets by Westfall at the end of the half closed the margin to 34-25.

In the third quarter, the Mustangs began to creep up on the winners and trailed 48-44 as the fourth canto began.

Shortly after the fourth period opened the Mustangs deadlocked the score at 50-50. But they couldn't move ahead of the hosts.

Zane Trace 72-62 Winner

Zane Trace led all the way in defeating visiting Paint Valley, 72-62, in Ross County League action.

The ZT Pioneers are tied for second in the league with Bishop Flaget and Huntington. All have 4-2 records.

Greg Ebert played his best game of the year for Zane Trace, scoring 19 points. He also turned in a stalwart defensive performance.

Bob Maxwell hit 10 consecutive foul shots, all in the first half. He also connected on six field goal tries and finished the tilt with game scoring honors on 22 points.

BARRY BENNETT also hit double figures, scoring 11 for the winners.

High man for the losing team was Dave Jones, who scored 18 markers. Pat Haas had 11 and John Stevens tipped in 14.

Zane Trace hit 26 of 41 shots from the field for a 36 1/2 per cent average. The Bearcats connected on 23 of 33 for a 28 per cent mark. From the charity stripe, the host school hit 20 of 29 while the visitors were on the mark 16 times in 26 trips.

Zane Trace won the preliminary tilt, 71-38, over the Bearcat junior varsity.

The Pioneers are now idle until their Holiday Tournament Dec. 28-29.

Laurelville 79-68 Victim At Unioto

Laurelville was defeated by Unioto, 79-68, Saturday on the Shermans' floor.

The tilt was not a Scioto Valley Conference game since the two teams play each other twice this season. A return match Feb. 4 at Laurelville will count in the SVC standings.

Unioto got off to an early lead and was never headed by the Wildcats. The winners held a 16-11 bulge at the end of the first period, a 40-31 edge at halftime and a 56-50 margin as the final quarter began.

Steve Hettinger was leading scorer for the Wildcats and tied with Neff of Unioto for game laurels. Both had 25 points.

THE DIMINUTIVE Laurelville guard scored his on 10 field goals and five foul shots. Neff connected eight times from the field and nine times from the charity stripe.

The Laurelville reserves lost, 58-54, in the preliminary game. The Wildcats play at The Plains of Athens County Wednesday and at Union Furnace Thursday.

Xavier Moves Into Buckeye Cage Spotlight

By BYRON ROSEN
AP Sports Writer

Quick now, who's that other major college basketball team in Cincinnati?

Xavier — sparked by Bob Quick — seems bent on making sure nobody forgets who.

The Musketeers have muscled into the Ohio spotlight with city rival University of Cincinnati and Toledo's Rockets, the last two major unbeatens in the state's roundball ranks.

On a Saturday night marked by a noticeable lack of success for most Ohio schools, Xavier won its sixth in seven starts 101-78 over Kent State while UC's Bearcats, 5-0, shelled Western Michigan 74-48 and Toledo, 5-0, outdid Marshall 103-91.

The way things went for Dayton and Bowling Green, after starting last week unbeaten and similarly limelighted, any big buildup could become the kiss of death.

Dayton, after winning its first five, got knocked askew at nationally ranked Louisville 96-81 while Bowling Green, which won its first four, lost its second straight in a 79-78 upset at Northern Illinois.

But with all their games this week on their home courts, they could well be celebrating records of 7-1, 7-0 and 6-0 come the Christmas weekend break.

Quick, a 6-foot 6 hometown Queen City product who seems sure to exceed the 20-point scoring average he posted for Xavier as a sophomore, and 6-11 sophomore Luther Rackley of Troy, N.Y., have led the way as the Muskies bounced back from an early 100-52 thrashing at Kansas.

Xavier whopped Detroit 104-89, Tampa 87-39, St. Bonaventure 97-80 before making Kent its fourth straight victim—all at home where Miami (Ohio) is Tuesday's foe.

Cincinnati, which held Western Michigan without a field goal the first 8 1/2 minutes and got 20 points in a 21-minute job by soph Dick Hauke, didn't hurt its No. 10 national rating and could enhance it this week by handling Colorado and Texas Christian.

Cincy and TCU clash Thursday after the Horned Frogs end Ohio State's 10-day layoff with a Tuesday match in Columbus.

Toledo, perennially tough at home, shot .619 from the floor in winning its Mid-American Conference opener as sophomores John Briskier, Steve Mix and Bob Miller again joined vet Bill Backenst in leading the assault. The Rockets entertain Duquesne Wednesday.

Nonconference play Saturday produced a sad 1-4 showing for Mid-Am squads as Ohio University, by a 71-67 count at Minnesota, joined Kent, Bowling Green and Western Michigan as losers while Miami managed a 69-65 triumph over Ball State.

Al Hairston scored 32 Bowling Green points but late free throws by Northern Illinois felled the Falcons. Glinder Torain scored 21, Rudy Waterman 21 and Don May 20 for Dayton but Louisville got 31 and backboard domination from big Westley Unsel.

Small college power Akron bounced San Francisco State 88-64, Marietta whipped Muskegon 73-57 in the only Ohio Conference game, while other

LITTLE GRAPPLERS — Randy Martin of Circleville, Tiger 103-pound wrestler, was in control of Rick Donley of Lancaster when this photo was snapped. Although Martin won this match, he later lost and finished in third place in the division.

Tiger Matmen Win Quad Match

The Circleville High School wrestling team Saturday captured the first quadrangle invitational tournament ever held here.

The Tigers earned top place with 85 points. Second spot honors went to the Lancaster team with 83 points. Walnut Ridge scored 76 and Marion Franklin 54.

Tom Fletcher was voted the outstanding wrestler in the meet by all four coaches.

Fletcher won the heavyweight class, defeating Doug Bailey of Lancaster and Ray Mourning of Marion Franklin. Bailey finishing second in the meet, Mourning was third and Larry Mundy of Walnut Ridge was fourth.

CIRCLEVILLE won four championships and three runner-up spots.

The 103-pound class was won by Terry Roberts of Walnut Ridge. Randy Martin defeated Rick Donley of Lancaster in his first match but lost to Roberts and Charles Forrest of Marion Franklin in his next two.

Another Walnut Ridge grappler, Dave Sheets won the 112-pound class. Mike Smith of Circleville lost to Jim Humphrey of Marion Franklin and Rock Garner of Lancaster, finishing fourth.

In the 120-pound class, Bill Hobson of Marion Franklin was the winner. He defeated Circleville's Steve Nelson, who also lost to George Stoner of Walnut Ridge.

In the 127-pound class, Craig Benzenberg of Circleville lost to Tim Mott of Lancaster, the class winner. Benzenberg finished second, defeating Bruno Sistto of Walnut Ridge and Terry Hoppewell of Marion Franklin.

The 133-pound class was won by Dean Martin of Circleville, who had victories over Ron Spires of Lancaster and Mike Hanson of Marion Franklin.

IN THE 138-pound class Dave Carr of Walnut Ridge, was the winner, defeating Collin Harvey of Marion Franklin and Bruce Pontious of Circleville. Pontious defeated Paul Dreier of Lancaster and Collin Harvey of Marion Franklin to finish second.

The 145-pound class was won by Ron Miller, the lone undefeated wrestler on the Circleville team.

Braves Explode In Final Period For 64-53 Win

An explosive fourth quarter propelled Logan Elm to a 64-53 decision over visiting Canal Winchester Saturday in a game that was a little closer than the final score indicates.

With 3:30 to go, the Winchester Indians were within three points of knotting the count. But it was all Logan Elm's game in the closing minutes.

Coach Keith Merrin, pleased with the steady floor play by his team, noted that the Braves had committed only eight turnovers.

Prior to Saturday's tilt, Logan Elm was losing the ball to opponents an average of 18 times a game through errors and ball handling.

RUSS MERRIN, slender senior brother of the coach, had one of the best nights of his high school career. He hit 12 of 15 shots from the field and missed only once in nine trips to the foul line for a 32-point total.

Jim Moorehead contributed 14 markers on five field goals and four foul shots.

For Canal Winchester, Kim Black and Vic Argobright each scored 14 points.

The Braves connected on 23 of 49 shots from the field while the Indians hit 18 of 54. From the charity stripe, Logan Elm sank 18 in 25 trips and the visitors scored 17 times in 23 chances.

Logan Elm outrebounded the losers, 37-27.

Merrin had 13 rebounds while Moorehead pulled down six. Jenne was credited with five. For Winchester, Bill Miles, a strong, 6-4 center, had nine.

THE FIRST quarter was nip and tuck all the way. Kim Black opened the scoring with a bucket off the tip. Moorehead countered for the Braves to tie the score.

At one point, Logan Elm moved to a 11-7 lead on the strength of seven consecutive points by Merrin. But when the quarter ended, the tally was knotted at 12-12.

In the second quarter, the visitors had a period of four minutes when they were unable to score from the field and Logan Elm built a 25-18 lead. When the teams went to the dressing room for the intermission, the score was 27-23.

The third period saw the visitors rally to go ahead, 36-34, when they were able to take advantage of one of the few Logan Elm turnovers. There was 2:2

Zane Trace hit 26 of 41 shots from the field for a 63 1/2 per cent average. The Bearcats connected on 23 of 33 for a 28 per cent mark. From the charity stripe, the host school hit 20 of 29 while the visitors were on the mark 16 times in 26 trips.

Zane Trace won the preliminary tilt, 71-38, over the Bearcat junior varsity.

The Pioneers are now idle until their Holiday Tournament Dec. 29.

Laurelville 79-68 Victim At Unioto

Laurelville was defeated by Unioto, 79-68, Saturday on the Shermans' floor.

The tilt was not a Scioto Valley Conference game since the two teams play each other twice this season. A return match Feb. 4 at Laurelville will count in the SVC standings.

Unioto got off to an early lead and was never headed by the Wildcats. The winners held a 16-11 bulge at the end of the first period, a 40-31 edge at halftime and a 56-50 margin as the final quarter began.

Steve Hettinger was leading scorer for the Wildcats and tied with Neff of Unioto for game laurels. Both had 25 points.

THE DIMINUTIVE Laurelville guard scored his on 10 field goals and five foul shots. Neff connected eight times from the field and nine times from the charity stripe.

The Laurelville reserves lost, 58-34, in the preliminary game. The Wildcats play at The Plains of Athens County Wednesday and at Union Furnace Thursday.

Xavier Moves Into Buckeye Cage Spotlight

By BYRON ROSEN
AP Sports Writer

Quick now, who's that other major college basketball team in Cincinnati?

Xavier — sparked by Bob Quick — seems bent on making sure nobody forgets who.

The Musketeers have muscled into the Ohio spotlight with city rival University of Cincinnati and Toledo's Rockets, the last two major unbeaten in the state's roundball ranks.

On a Saturday night marked by a noticeable lack of success for most Ohio schools, Xavier won its sixth in seven starts 101-78 over Kent State while UC's Bearcats, 5-0, shelved Western Michigan 74-48 and Toledo, 5-0, outdid Marshall 103-81.

The way things went for Dayton and Bowling Green, after starting last week unbeaten and similarly limelighted, any big buildup could become the kiss of death.

Dayton, after winning its first five, got knocked askew at nationally ranked Louisville 96-81 while Bowling Green, which won its first four, lost its second straight in a 79-78 upset at Northern Illinois.

But with all their games this week on their home courts, they could well be celebrating records of 7-1, 7-0 and 6-0 come the Christmas weekend break.

Quick, a 6-foot-6 hometown Queen City product who seems sure to exceed the 20-point scoring average he posted for Xavier as a sophomore, and 6-11 sophomore Luther Rackley of Troy, N. Y., have led the way as the Muskies bounced back from an early 100-52 thrashing at Kansas.

Xavier whopped Detroit 104-80, Tampa 87-39, St. Bonaventure 97-80 before making Kent its fourth straight victim—all at home where Miami (Ohio) is Tuesday's foe.

Cincinnati, which held Western Michigan without a field goal the first 8 1/2 minutes and got 20 points in a 21-minute job by soph Dick Haucke, didn't hurt its No. 10 national rating and could enhance it this week by handling Colorado and Texas Christian.

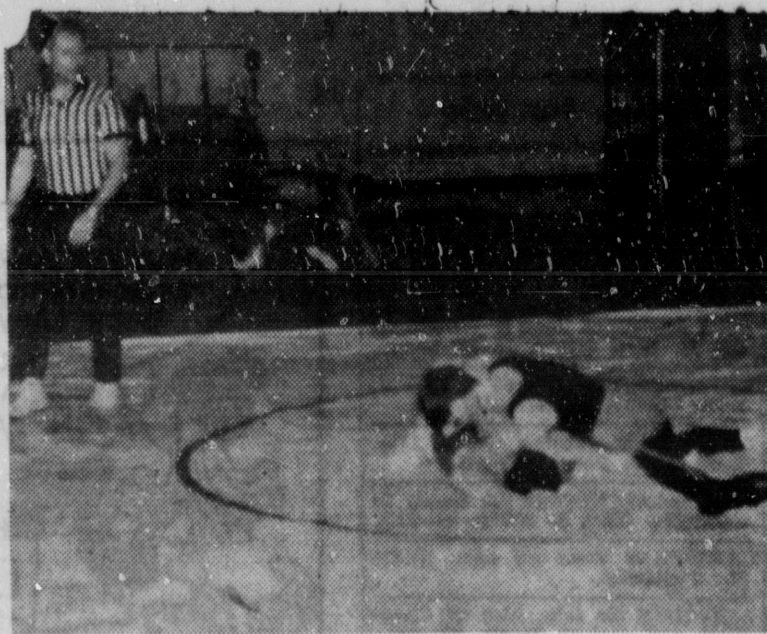

Cincy and TCU clash Thursday after the Horned Frogs end Ohio State's 10-day layoff with a Tuesday match in Columbus.

Toledo, perennially tough at home, shot .619 from the floor in winning its Mid-American Conference opener as sophomores John Brisker, Steve Mix and Bob Miller again joined vet Bill Backensto in leading the assault. The Rockets entertain Duquesne Wednesday.

Nonconference play Saturday produced a sad 1-4 showing for Mid-Am squads as Ohio University, by a 71-67 count at Minnesota, joined Kent, Bowling Green and Western Michigan as losers while Miami managed a 69-65 triumph over Ball State.

At Hairston scored 32 Bowling Green points but late free throws by Northern Illinois felled the Falcons. Glinder Torain scored 21, Rudy Waterman 21 and Don May 20 for Dayton but Louisville got 31 and backboard domination from big Westley Unsell.

Small college power Akron bounced San Francisco State 88-64, Marietta whipped Muskegon 73-57 in the only Ohio Conference game, while other OC teams won four of six non-league clashes.

LITTLE GRAPPLERS — Randy Martin of Circleville, Tiger 103-pound wrestler, was in control of Rick Donley of Lancaster when this photo was snapped. Although Martin won this match, he later lost and finished in third place in the division.

Tiger Matmen Win Quad Match

The Circleville High School wrestling team Saturday captured the first quadrangle invitational tournament ever held here.

The Tigers earned top place with 85 points. Second spot honors went to the Lancaster team with 83 points. Walnut Ridge scored 76 and Marion Franklin 54.

Tom Fletcher was voted the outstanding wrestler in the meet by all four coaches.

Fletcher won the heavyweight class, defeating Doug Bailey of Lancaster and Ray Mourning of Marion Franklin. Bailey finished second in the meet, Mourning was third and Larry Mundy of Walnut Ridge was fourth.

CIRCLEVILLE won four championships and three runner-up spots.

The 103-pound class was won by Terry Roberts of Walnut Ridge. Randy Martin defeated Rick Donley of Lancaster in his first match but lost to Roberts and Charles Forrest of Marion Franklin in his next two.

Another Walnut Ridge grappler, Dave Sheets won the 112-pound class. Mike Smith of Circleville lost to Jim Humphrey of Marion Franklin and Rock Garner of Lancaster, finishing fourth.

In the 126-pound class, Bill Hobson of Marion Franklin was the winner. He defeated Circleville's Steve Nelson, who also lost to George Stoner of Walnut Ridge.

In the 127-pound class, Craig Benzenberg of Circleville lost to Tim Mott of Lancaster, the class winner. Benzenberg finished second, defeating Bruno Sistto of Walnut Ridge and Terry Hopevell of Marion Franklin.

The 133-pound class was won by Dean Martin of Circleville, who had victories over Ron Spires of Lancaster and Mike Hanson of Marion Franklin.

In the 138-pound class Dave Carr of Walnut Ridge, was the winner, defeating Collin Harvey of Marion Franklin and Bruce Pontious of Circleville. Pontious defeated Paul Dreier of Lancaster and Collin Harvey of Marion Franklin to finish second.

The 145-pound class was won by Ron Miller, the lone undefeated wrestler on the Circleville team.

Miller defeated Dave Camp of Lancaster and Greg Fout of Walnut Ridge.

OC teams won four of six non-league clashes.

Vikings Lose 68-47 Game To Hartley

Rod Teets Held To 6 Points by CO League School

Teays Valley Vikings lost to Bishop Hartley, 68-47, Saturday on the winners' floor.

It was the third loss for the Vikings this season and the widest margin of defeat. Teays Valley lost by a total of six points to Columbus North and Columbus West.

Rod Parker paced the winners with a 21-point assault on nine field goals and three foul shots. Brewer scored 19 for the winners, hitting eight buckets from the field and three from the charity stripe.

Ron Leatherwood was leading scorer for the Vikings, connecting on six field goals and three foul shots.

Big Rod Teets, the Vikings' leading scorer, was shut out from the field and hit six foul shots for a six-point total. It was his lowest output of the year.

Teays Valley hit 17 of 47 shots from the field and 13 of 20 at the foul line. The host team connected on 10 of 16 at the foul line.

The Vikings had a total of 28 rebounds and Teets was credited with 10.

The Teays Valley varsity is idle until Dec. 30 when they meet Whitehall in a Metropolitan League game.

The Bishop Wherle reserves and freshmen will play in the Viking gymnasium Friday. The frosh tilt will start at 6:30 p.m. and the reserve game around 8 p.m.

The Bishop Hartley junior varsity made it a clean sweep, edging the Little Vikings, 37-32.

Braves Explode In Final Period For 64-53 Win

An explosive fourth quarter propelled Logan Elm to a 64-53 decision over visiting Canal Winchester Saturday in a game that was a little closer than the final score indicates.

With 3:30 to go, the Winchester Indians were within three points of knotting the count. But it was all Logan Elm's game in the closing minutes.

Coach Keith Merrin, pleased with the steady floor play by his team, noted that the Braves had committed only eight turnovers.

Prior to Saturday's tilt, Logan Elm was losing the ball to opponents an average of 18 times a game through errors and ball handling.

RUSS MERRIN, slender senior brother of the coach, had one of the best nights of his high school career. He hit 12 of 15 shots from the field and missed only once in nine trips to the foul line for a 32-point total.

Jim Moorehead contributed 14 markers on five field goals and four foul shots.

For Canal Winchester, Kim Black and Vic Argobright each scored 14 points.

The Braves connected on 23 of 49 shots from the field while the Indians hit 18 of 54. From the charity stripe, Logan Elm sank 18 in 25 trips and the visitors scored 17 times in 23 chances.

Logan Elm outrebounded the losers, 37-27.

Merrin had 13 rebounds while Moorehead pulled down six. Jenne was credited with five. For Winchester, Bill Miles, a strong, 6-4 center, had nine.

THE FIRST quarter was nip and tuck all the way. Kim Black opened the scoring with a bucket off the tip. Moorehead countered for the Braves to tie the score.

At one point, Logan Elm moved to a 11-7 lead on the strength of seven consecutive points by Merrin. But when the quarter ended, the tally was knotted at 12-12.

In the second quarter, the visitors had a period of four minutes when they were unable to score from the field and Logan Elm built a 25-18 lead. When the teams went to the dressing room for the intermission, the score was 27-23.

The third period saw the visitors rally to go ahead, 36-34, when they were able to take advantage of one of the few Logan Elm turnovers. There was 2:23 to go in the quarter. It was the last time Canal Winchester was in the lead.

By the time the quarter ended, the Braves were back on top 39-36.

The fourth quarter burst by Logan Elm saw Merrin take six shots from the field and connect on all of them.

FORCED to foul the deliberate Braves to gain possession of the ball, the Indians saw the winners score 11 points at the foul line during the final period.

The Logan Elm reserves won the preliminary tilt, 36-30.

The Braves have a 4-2 record for the season. They are now idle until Dec. 28 and 29 when they play in the Zane Trace Invitational Holiday tournament.

Melee Follows 49ers' Defeat

By DICK COUCH
AP Sports Writer

Vince Lombardi hopes his football season lasts another month. So does Tom Landry. But Gerard Bergman may have just about enough for one year.

While Lombardi's Green Bay Packers and Landry's Dallas Cowboys looked forward today to their National Football League championship game Jan. 1 and a berth in the Super Bowl two weeks later, Bergman looked back on the most harrowing five minutes of his NFL officiating career.

San Francisco fans, angered by a wave of penalties in the 49ers' 30-14 loss to Baltimore Sunday, took it out on the officials — with Head Linesman Bergman the primary target — in the closing minutes.

First, a woman fan dashed from the stands, lifted the linesman's penalty handkerchief from his back pocket and raced away. Then, after the officials ended the game 30 seconds early while fans pulled down one of the goal posts and swarmed over the field, Bergman was pelted with whisky bottles and knocked dizzy as he made his way to the dressing rooms.

Two Baltimore players and another official finally helped Bergman reach his quarters after he had been struck on the head twice by bottles.

There were 12 penalties called against the 49ers and nine against the Colts — for a total of 192 yards — in the fiercely played game for second place in the Western Conference. Four touchdown passes by Johnny Unitas won for the Colts, who'll meet Philadelphia in the NFL Playoff Bowl at Miami Jan. 8.

Meanwhile, the Cowboys, who clinched the Eastern Conference title Saturday when Cleveland eliminated St. Louis 38-10, struggled to a 17-7 victory over New York and the Packers, who nailed the Western crown a week ago, held off Los Angeles 27-23.

The Eagles earned the Eastern Conference berth in the

Eagles Victory
Clinches Trip

CLEVELAND AP) — For awhile it looked like the Cleveland Browns would wind up the National Football League season at the Playoff Bowl in Miami.

That was Sunday. Now Coach Blanton Collier is starting to think about the NFL draft instead.

The Browns needed a Washington victory over Philadelphia Sunday to make the Playoff Bowl. The Redskins lost, 37-28, but got within two points late in the fourth quarter and then recovered an onside kick.

But Charley Taylor fumbled a Sonny Jurgensen pass that Harold Wells picked up and ran 60 yards for a touchdown, putting the Eagles out of reach.

Cleveland and Philadelphia finished in a tie for second place in the NFL's Eastern Conference with 9-5 records. But Philadelphia makes their trip because the Browns have been in the game more recently.

The Browns moved into Playoff Bowl contention by beating the St. Louis Cardinals Saturday, 38-10, with Frank Ryan throwing four touchdown passes. Three came in the second half after Lou Groza's 37-yard field goal tied it 10-10 at halftime.

Gary Collins had two touchdown catches, Ernie Green and Clifton McNeil one each and Leroy Kelly scored on a one-yard run.

Collier said he would meet

Playoff Bowl by outscoring Washington 37-28 to finish in a second-place tie with Cleveland. They'll go to Miami because the Browns were there more recently — in January, 1964.

Elsewhere, Gale Sayers returned the opening kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown and then for 197 rushing yards as Chicago drubbed the Vikings 41-28 and Bill Nelsen passed for 344 yards and two touchdowns in Pittsburgh's 57-33 romp over Atlanta.

In the American Football League, Buffalo won the Eastern Division title by thrashing Denver 38-21; Kansas City's Western Division champs topped San Diego 27-17 and Miami nipped Houston 29-23. New York whipped Boston 38-28 in a Saturday AFL game.

Yale's Schollander All-America Swimmer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale's Don Schollander, winner of four gold medals in the 1964 Olympics, wasted little time in celebrating his election to this year's AAU All-America swimming team.

Named to the team during the weekend, Schollander went out and set a Yale record in winning the 1,000-yard free style in 10:34.9 and also taking the 500-yard event in 4:50.4 in leading the Elis to a 71-33 victory over North Carolina State Saturday.

After Willie Davis of the Dodgers dropped two fly balls in the second game of the World Series he failed to hit in his next 10 trips to the plate.

With his staff Monday or Tuesday, but he took a look at the film of the St. Louis game and said, "It was one of our best offensive efforts of the year."

Collier also watched Washington and Philadelphia on television. "That game was a lot like some of ours this season," he said. "A play here and there could have changed the whole game."

Vince Lombardi hopes his football season lasts another month. So does Tom Landry. But Gerard Bergman may have just about enough for one year.

While Lombardi's Green Bay Packers and Landry's Dallas Cowboys looked forward today to their National Football League championship date Jan. 1 and a berth in the Super Bowl two weeks later, Bergman looked back on the most harrowing five minutes of his NFL officiating career.

San Francisco fans, angered by a wave of penalties in the 49ers' 30-14 loss to Baltimore Sunday, took it out on the officials — with Head Linesman Bergman the primary target — in the closing minutes.

First, a woman fan dashed from the stands, lifted the linesman's penalty handkerchief from his back pocket and raced away. Then, after the officials ended the game 30 seconds early while fans pulled down one of the goal posts and swarmed over the field, Bergman was pelted with whisky bottles and knocked dizzy as he made his way to the dressing rooms.

Two Baltimore players and another official finally helped Bergman reach his quarters after he had been struck on the head twice by bottles.

There were 12 penalties called against the 49ers and nine against the Colts — for a total of 192 yards — in the fiercely played game for second place in the Western Conference. Four touchdown passes by Johnny Unitas won it for the Colts, who'll meet Philadelphia in the NFL Playoff Bowl at Miami Jan. 8.

Meanwhile, the Cowboys, who clinched the Eastern Conference title Saturday when Cleveland eliminated St. Louis 38-10, struggled to a 17-7 victory over New York and the Packers, who nailed the Western crown a week ago, held off Los Angeles 27-23.

The Eagles earned the Eastern Conference berth in the Playoff Bowl by outscoring Washington 37-28 to finish in a second-place tie with Cleveland. They'll go to Miami because the Browns were there more recently — in January, 1964.

Elsewhere, Gale Sayers returned the opening kickoff 90 yards for a touchdown and then for 197 rushing yards as Chicago drubbed the Vikings 41-28 and Bill Nelsen passed for 344 yards and two touchdowns in Pittsburgh's 57-33 romp over Atlanta.

In the American Football League, Buffalo won the Eastern Division title by thrashing Denver 38-21; Kansas City's Western Division champs topped San Diego 27-17 and Miami nipped Houston 29-23. New York whipped Boston 38-28 in a Saturday AFL game.

Yale's Schollander

All-America Swimmer

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Yale's Don Schollander, winner of four gold medals in the 1964 Olympics, wasted little time in celebrating his election to this year's AAU All-America swimming team.

Named to the team during the weekend, Schollander went out and set a Yale record in winning the 1,000-yard free style in 10:34.9 and also taking the 500-yard event in 4:50.4 in leading the Elis to a 71-33 victory over North Carolina State Saturday.

After Willie Davis of the Dodgers dropped two fly balls in the second game of the World Series he failed to hit in his next 10 trips to the plate.

with his staff Monday or Tuesday, but he took a look at the film of the St. Louis game and said, "It was one of our best offensive efforts of the year."

Collier also watched Washington and Philadelphia on television. "That game was a lot like some of ours this season," he said. "A play here and there could have changed the whole game."

Collier said he would meet

Democrat Governors Want To Help Run '68 Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic governors want President Johnson to let them help make the decisions on how to run the 1968 presidential campaign.

This was the nearly unanimous verdict of about a score of state executives who heaped their political woes on the absent President's shoulders at the National Governors' Conference in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., last week.

Privately, the governors complained to each other that politically Johnson is a one-man band who doesn't even invite them to sing in the background chorus.

There is likely to be some pointed conversation about reorganization of the Democratic National Committee at a projected post-Christmas meeting between the President and a delegation headed by Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa.

Before the conference adjourned Saturday, some Democratic governors had softened their original blasts that the President was traveling the "Great Society" road to fast in a period when Vietnam war spending is skyrocketing. But nearly all said that if Johnson hopes to win in 1968 he is going to have to reorganize the party machinery.

The President's friend, Gov. John B. Connally of Texas, said in an interview the 25 Democratic governors will have to form the base of this campaign organization.

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois suggested there may be a "civil war" if National Chairman John M. Bailey isn't replaced. Bailey has denied he is on the way out and said he expects to preside over a February meeting of the Committee. But some of the governors think Johnson may have other plans after he talks with the governors.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey, who said the governors were blaming the President for doing what he was elected to do, cautioned his colleagues not to "push the panic button" because the party suffered setbacks in the November election.

He predicted, as did Kerner, that Johnson will be re-elected.

If Johnson seeks a second term, most Democratic governors expect Michigan Gov. George Romney to be his opponent. They generally look upon Romney as a much more dangerous foe than former Vice President Richard M. Nixon or any other potential GOP nominee.

Africa, War in Vietnam Dominate U.N. Sessions

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Problems of black Africa dominated this year's sessions of the General Assembly, now in its final hours, but the continuing war in Vietnam cast a pall over the session.

Apprehension over the future in Southeast Asia was offset somewhat by signs of a thaw in relations between the United States and the Soviet Union and by their attempts to reach a measure of agreement on disarmament.

The mounting clamor for world peace resulted in a ringing vote of confidence for U Thant and a move to broaden the role of the secretary-general in dealing with the formidable obstacles blocking the path to international understanding.

As the session opened, the 38-nation African group cut in on the traditional policy debate to protest the World Court's refusal to rule on the merits of the South-West Africa case.

For four weeks, the assembly hall echoed with charges that the white supremacist government of South Africa had violated its mandate over South-West Africa by introducing race segregation there.

In an unprecedented act of reprisal, the Africans mustered enough votes in the assembly's Budgetary Committee to deny the World Court a supplementary appropriation of $72,500 to meet expenses of the South-West Africa case.

After bringing South Africa's policies under blistering attack on trusteeship, racial discrimination and apartheid or race segregation, the group turned its attention to Portugal and Rhodesia.

The Africans put through a resolution posing the threat of British force against the rebel Rhodesian regime of Prime Minister Ian Smith. The proposal meant little, however, since Britain foreswore military measures.

The Africans then won assembly approval of a demand that Portugal's partners in the Atlantic alliance stop selling arms allegedly used to control Lisbon's African territories. Most of the NATO nations voted against it.

While the Africans dominated the debates, attention was diverted by an act of U.S.-Soviet cooperation that could have a far-reaching effect on the disarmament issue.

The two super powers agreed on a treaty that would prevent military exploitation of the moon and other celestial bodies and would ban weapons of mass destruction from outer space.

During the session, Soviet-bloc speakers echoed the old cold-war phrases, and the United States answered in kind. But both sides appeared in some cases to be acting more from practice than from conviction.

Toward the end of the session, U Thant finally announced the decision most delegates had anticipated—to stay on as secretary-general for another five-year term.

The United States won its perennial battle to bar Red China from the United Nations by a margin 11 votes higher than the tally the previous year. There was a move among members to seat both Chinas in the world forum, despite insistence by both regimes that they would accept no such formula.
